Accidents Are Fatal To Eight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri traffic accidents over the weekend cost eight lives.

The body of Sandra Fay Rush, 8, was recovered this morning downstream in Dry Fork Creek from a low-water bridge where a station wagon carrying 10 persons plunged into the water Friday night.

The bodies of the girl's sister, Rhonda Kay Rush, 9, and Glenda Sue Mackey, 11, were recovered from the rain-swollen stream soon after the accident near Carthage.

Bill D. Green, 25, of Wichita, Kan., died Saturday in a hospital at Manhattan, Mo., where he was taken after his car overturned Friday night on Wright County Y about two miles north of Macomb. Green, an office manager for a food distributing company in Wichita, was on his way to visit an aunt and was only half a mile from the end of this trip when the car overturned.

Raymond J. Parker, 40, Hillsboro, Mo., was killed Sunday in a head-on collision on M-47 near St. Clair.

Joe Rankins, 15, St. Louis, was killed when the car in which he was riding hit a concrete drainage ditch and plunged down an embankment along M-30 near House Springs, Mo., Saturday.

Mrs. Ann L. Hayes, 19, Kansas City, and George J. Woodward, 74, Columbus, Ohio, were killed in a two-car accident Friday night on U.S. 37 near Chillicothe.

Trygve Lie Dies; First UN Leader

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Trygve H. Lie, first secretary-general of the United Nations, died today in his Norwegian homeland. He was 72.

Word of the death came from friends of the family. U. Thant, the present U.N. secretary-general, was informed in New York.

Hearnes Hails Bond Sale As Giant Step For State

NEW YORK (AP) — New Madrid, Mo., sold $185 million in industrial revenue bonds today and Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes called it the largest single revenue bond sale in history for industrial development purposes.

The money will be used to provide an aluminum reduction plant and a new electrical generating system to supply the power.

The aluminum reduction plant will be operated by Noranda Manufacturing Ltd., of Canada and will employ an estimated

Apollo 8's Crew Ready To Share Its Treasure

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 8 astronauts engage in the first full day of intensive de-briefing on their flight today as space officials release part of the treasure they brought back—color views unseen before of the earth and the moon.

Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. William A. Anders are set to talk into tape recorders about their half-million mile voyage around the moon and back.

The trio, meeting with flight training specialists, will go over their mission "event by event in considerable detail," a space official said. They will follow the

Will Meet With VC On Freeing POW's

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today it will send five representatives New Year's Day to a second meeting with the Viet Cong in an attempt to secure the release of three American prisoners of war promised freedom by the enemy.

In a broadcast over the Armed Forces Radio, U.S. headquarters said a cease-fire would be observed around the meeting site 50 miles northwest of Saigon.

"To ensure the safety of the prisoners and the participants from the opposing side," the U.S. announcement said, "a corridor to the meeting place, free of military action on the part of the allies from 6 a.m. until three hours after the meeting ends, will be established. The corridor will be approximately two kilometers wide and will run southwest from the meeting site in a straight line."

The U.S. Command said it assumed the Viet Cong would send an equal number of unarmed same scheduled for nine of the next 10 days, talking with groups ranging from scientists to fellow astronauts.

Each word will be recorded, transcribed and prepared for a final report.

Their only break will come New Year's Day.

"That'll be their first day off in many, many weeks," an official said.

The astronauts arrived at 3 a.m. EST Sunday and had their first intensive de-briefing session less than 12 hours later.

They were flown here from the aircraft carrier Yorktown via Hawaii. They had spent a day on the carrier after helicopters plucked them from the mid-Pacific at the end of their moon-orbiting mission.

Their spacecraft was taken to Honolulu by the Yorktown where it will undergo Navy tests before being flown to the North American Rockwell Co. plant at Downey, Calif., for closer examination.

Twelve pictures taken by the Apollo 8 crew en route and around the moon—part of the scientific treasure they gathered in their six-day flight—were released Sunday by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Two of the color pictures of the earth were taken as the spacecraft was in orbit or near the moon. They show the earth as a glowing sapphire half-disk with wisps of clouds streaking the deep blue.

One view, taken as the spacecraft was en route to the moon, shows continents on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean. The west bulge of Africa shows as a brown patch surrounded by clouds. The east coast of South America is shrouded with clouds. The edge of darkness stands out as sunset moves across Africa.

Another picture shows most of the southern United States, with the Florida Peninsula standing out as if on a global map.

A huge swirl of clouds covers the North Atlantic and beyond is the curve of the earth. Shallow waters in the Caribbean stand out as a greenish blue while the deeper waters are shades of tan or black.

A picture of the earth taken from lunar orbit shows it rising over the moon as the moon appears to rise to men on earth. It is a brilliant blue, with patches of brown that are whole continents. The background is velvet black and the dark side of the earth cannot be seen. The picture has the pocked and rugged surface of the moon in the foreground.

Color pictures of the moon have greenish or tan tint, but the astronauts said this color was not true. Instead, they said, the moon is more the color of "dirty beach sand."

70 Persons Feared Dead in Rock Slide

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — About 70 persons were feared dead today after tons of rock, loosened by rain and repeated dynamite blasts, fell 300 feet into a quarry and carried a section of shantytown with it.

Eyewitnesses said as many as 26 shacks fell to destruction when the quarry rim collapsed Sunday but firemen closed the number at 10 to 15. Rescuers found only one survivor, a 3-year-old boy. Eight bodies had been recovered by Sunday night.

New Reprisal Raids Promised by Israel

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Undeterred by mounting condemnation from all sides of its commando raid on the Beirut airport, Israel on Sunday promised further retaliation for Arab attacks.

Premier Levi Eshkol declared that Israel will defend itself against aggression "in the place where it is planned and carried out."

"States which make it possible for the terror organizations to organize and perpetrate acts of terror bear the responsibility for aggression, a responsibility which they cannot disclaim," he said.

Eshkol and Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, Shabtai Rosenne, said Saturday's raid was in retaliation for the Arab terrorist attack on an El Al airliner at Athens airport

Thursday. Greek authorities are holding two Palestinian guerrillas who lived in Lebanon for the grenade and automatic rifle attack on the plane, which killed one Israeli passenger.

The U.N. Security Council met in urgent session Sunday night and appeared headed for a vote condemning Israel at another meeting tonight. U.S. Ambassador J.R. Wiggins told the council his government "strongly condemns the attack" and "is prepared to support prompt action by the Security Council to condemn this latest Israeli action."

In Washington, presidential assistant Walt W. Rostow reported that President Johnson considered the attack "serious and unwise." Rostow said the United States told Israel it is "a grave matter for regular forces of the government of Israel to attack a civil international airport in a country which has been striving toward moderation in the Middle East."

The U.S. ambassador to Lebanon, Dwight Porter, called on Lebanese Premier Abdullah Yafi to discuss how the United States could help Lebanon "restore its commercial air fleet," the embassy announced.

There was no indication, however, that the United States would go back on its agreement to deliver 50 Phantom jet fighters to Israel.

Helicopter-borne Israeli commandos destroyed 13 Lebanese cargo and passenger planes, more than half the country's civil airline fleet, in the 45-minute raid Saturday night. They first cleared the parked planes of passengers. One casualty was reported, a guard who was wounded slightly.

On Sunday, 12 hours after the raid, two Israeli jets flew over the airport to inspect the still-smoldering debris. Lebanese troops dived for cover, and the planes made two low passes and flew off unchallenged by anti-aircraft batteries or fighter planes based 40 miles away.

Lebanon claimed the destroyed aircraft were worth more than $50 million, and Arab and Soviet bloc countries at the Security Council meeting demanded that Israel be required to pay compensation.

Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik told the council that Israel also should be warned if it persisted in what he called "fla-

Crewmen Discuss Beatings

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Two of the USS Pueblo's enlisted men give the first detailed accounts today of beatings suffered by crewmen during 11 months of North Korean captivity.

The intelligence ship's commanding officer, Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, said the North Koreans made a "studied attempt to create terror among my men and myself."

Quartermaster I.C. Charles B. Law, Jr., 27, of Port Townsend, Wash., and Radioman 2.C. Lee R. Hayes, 26, of Columbus, Ohio, will describe examples of beatings at a news conference, the Navy announced Sunday. Newsmen will be allowed to question Law and Hayes, the Navy said.

Law "took it the worst of anyone in the crew," an informed source said.

In an interview at Midway Island, while he and the crew were en route home last week, Bucher told newsmen, "Every member of the crew had been subjected to terror of some kind or another. Whether it was actual physical beating or not is beside the point, because the terror of expecting a beating is what was threatening."

"The threat of a beating was always there. Every time they decided to beat someone it was done from an emotional point of view. It was always done from a studied attempt to create terror among my men and myself."

The director of the U.S. Naval hospital where the 82 crewmen are staying, Rear Adm. Horace Warden, said last Thursday all of the men "have a history of physical maltreatment."

At the 121st Evacuation Hospital in Seoul, where the crewmen were taken after their release, Army doctors said 20 to 30 per cent of the crew showed "some evidence of maltreatment recent enough to detect."

A Navy spokesman said Law and Hayes were directed to not to answer questions about the capture of the intelligence ship off North Korea last Jan. 23 or about other details of their 11-month captivity.

After Bucher's first statements about the beatings, President Johnson ordered an investigation. Part of the investigation was released over the weekend in Washington. It told of statements by Bucher that North Korean threats to kill his crew one by one contributed to his signing of so-called confessions which said the Pueblo was in North Korea-claimed waters when it was taken.

VC Cease-Fire Ignored As Allies Forge Ahead

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong shot down three more American helicopters over the weekend, raising to 968 the number of choppers reported lost in combat in South Vietnam.

As the American helicopter losses climbed, thousands of U.S. and South Vietnamese troops pushed ahead with 60 offensive operations, ignoring the start of a New Year's cease-fire proclaimed by the Viet Cong.

All three helicopters were shot down before the cease-fire started.

One was hit about 30 miles north of Saigon Saturday, killing two Americans and injuring two others. Another was hit Sunday in Tay Ninh Province, northwest of Saigon, and three men were injured. The third was shot down in the northern sector of the country, near Quang Ngai City, and one crewman was killed.

The Viet Cong broadcast an announcement saying its forces began observing a 72-hour cease-fire at 1 a.m. Saigon time but warned they would strike back if attacked. South Vietnam and the United States said they would not observe a New Year's cease-fire this year because of alleged Viet Cong violations of the 24-hour Christmas truce.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported five enemy attacks on government bases after the start of the Viet Cong cease-fire. Most were shelling, and a spokesman said they caused only light casualties and no significant damage.

The U.S. Command said five 107mm rockets hit a base camp of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division about 40 miles northwest of Saigon this morning. U.S. casualties were "very light with no fatalities," a spokesman said. One Vietnamese civilian was wounded.

See No Further Effort To End Paris Deadlock

PARIS (AP) — Hanoi diplomats said today they expect no further U.S.-North Vietnamese talks on breaking the peace conference deadlock before the start of the new year.

Others connected with the lengthening dispute over ground rules for the proposed parity said it was still an open question whether the conference, originally slated to open nearly two months ago, would begin before President-elect Nixon takes office Jan. 20.

In any event, they doubted there would be any substantial progress toward ending the war before the Vietnamese delegations have a chance to assess the negotiating posture of the Nixon administration.

A U.S. delegation official said no meeting between Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance and Hanoi's

Col. Ha Van Lau is now scheduled but another private session could be called by either side at any time.

The last Vance-Lau meeting on Dec. 19 found the two closer on table shape designs—the main status-symbol issue delaying the conference—but still fundamentally divided over the basic question of recognition of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Hanoi and the NLF say conference procedures should reflect their claim to recognition of the front as a separate, equal delegation because they claim the NLF is the authentic representative of South Vietnam. The allies say the NLF is an outlaw tool of Hanoi.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese delegations, meanwhile, went ahead with continuing talks aimed at shaping a united front on both the procedural issues and on the substantive negotiations expected later.

Vance, who met with Saigon envoy Pham Dang Lam Saturday following consultations with President Johnson and other U.S. leaders in Washington, conferred by telephone with Lam today, aides said.

Earlier Vance had said, "We will be meeting again on Monday." However, aides said that instead of another Vance-Lam talk the two delegations were holding staff-level talks in three subcommittees dealing with procedures and basic bargaining positions.

A meeting Saturday produced neither a new bid to break the procedural stalemate with the

Ann Landers

Blondes Have Fun, Brunettes Marry

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a woman wrote and asked if you thought blonds had more fun. You said you didn't know of any surveys but your own personal opinion was "no."

You are wrong and I proved it.

I am a hairdresser. My natural color is dark brown. Last year, just to satisfy my curiosity, I conducted a personal experiment. I dyed my hair every color on the chart and checked the male reactions for two weeks. I started by going raven's wing black. Coal-black hair is more attention-getting than brown. I discovered by walking through hotel lobbies and sitting in the swangin'est cocktail lounges. I kept track of the whistles, propositions and requests for dates. (The last two are not the same.)

From raven's wing black I went to chestnut. Then I tried the copper tones, next the true reds. From burnt auburn I eased into the blond shades. I began to get a lot more propositions as well as dinner invitations when I hit honey blond. By the time I got to platinum, I was so swamped I couldn't keep the names straight.

I became engaged to a wonderful fellow as a platinum blond. The first thing the guy asked me to do was let my hair go back to its natural color. Funny, isn't it, that men like to date platinum blonds but they want their wives natural? I'm going to be married next month as a brownette.

Bingaman Expands Supermarket

William E. Bingaman, 513 Sunset Dr., has purchased the property and building of the Kroger store in Windsor and has announced the scheduled opening of a Bing's United Super Market between March 1 and 15 of next year.

The store, which contains approximately 6,500 square feet of floor space, will be the fifth in a chain of super markets owned by Bingaman, his son, Vernon, Route 4, and son-in-law, Morris L. Brown, 2606 Anderson. The other four are located in Carrollton, Lexington and Sedalia.

A new floor and fixtures will be installed in the recently acquired structure along with heating and air conditioning.

Bingaman has been in the grocery business for 16 years and prior to that was with the A & P company for 23 years, 15 of which were in a supervisory position.

But facts are facts, Ann. Blondes do have more fun and I proved it. — LUCKY LUCILLE

Dear Lucille: You are lucky — lucky you have any hair left. A gal who dyes her hair a different color every two weeks could end up bald — not engaged. Congratulations and best wishes.

Dear Ann Landers: I know you are busy with problems more important than mine but please give me an answer. Thousands of people in your reading audience could benefit from the information.

What does a person do when he is eating out — particularly in the home of a friend — and runs into a bad shrimp, or an oyster that doesn't taste right, or an overripe stuffed olive? Is it best to spit it out in the napkin, spit it out on the plate, leave the table and dispose of it in the bathroom, or swallow it. — BEEZER.

Dear Bee: Let's rule out your last suggestion at once. Under no circumstances should a person swallow food he suspects is tainted. The best solution is to dispose of it in the most inconspicuous manner. Use a fork or spoon to transport it on to your plate, then place it under a lettuce leaf or a shell — out of sight, if possible.

Baby Is Found Frozen

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A policeman found a 6-month-old boy frozen to death and a twin-sister near death from freezing in a second-floor apartment on the east side Sunday.

The girl, Melissa Hicks, was in critical condition later at Children's Mercy Hospital where she was taken by Patrolman John O'Neal.

The dead boy was Timothy Wayne Hicks.

The children's mother, Miss Beulah Kay Hicks, 16, was placed in custody of juvenile authorities. She also has a 3-year-old daughter.

Miss Hicks and her children lived with her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Hicks. Police were called by Mrs. Hicks when the children's plight was discovered by their mother.

Patrolman O'Neal said the two-story building was quite warm, but the babies were in a small, unheated space where they slept on some blankets on the floor. Miss Hicks and her 3-year-old daughter slept on a mattress with one blanket on the floor of the same storage area.

A nursing supervisor at the hospital said both babies had suffered from malnutrition and there was ice on Melissa's body when O'Neal brought her in.

Miss Hicks told police she put the twins to bed at 8 p.m. Saturday. She said she fed them at 6 a.m. Sunday. She said she arose at 9 a.m. and discovered the children's condition an hour later. She was hysterical when police arrived.

evening was given by the Notables directed by Jim Edwards.

Omer West was master of ceremonies for the games of the evening.

The dinner was served to more than 150 persons, and was sponsored by various food firms of this area.

May Consider Tax Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to encourage more individuals to contribute to political campaigns by giving them a tax break apparently will get a hearing after Congress reconvenes next month.

The Committee for Economic Development Sunday proposed that the federal government give an outright credit of 50 per cent against income tax on political contributions up to $50 for each taxpayer, $100 for a couple filing a joint return.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, says the panel will listen to the plan put forth by a business-backed research group designed to cope with the spiraling costs of major campaigns.

Without committing himself to the particular plan put forth by the committee, Mills, an Arkansas Democrat, said that "We must find a better way to finance campaigns. Some way or another there has to be a meaningful solution to these ever-increasing costs."

The senior Republican on the Ways and Means Committee, Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, commented that the suggestion has merit and some version of it ought to be considered.

"I can see possible complications," Byrnes continued. "There would be problems of proof, for example. But we have to focus in on some method of financing campaigns."

The idea of a tax incentive to broaden the base of campaign financing also is favored by party chiefs outside Congress.

A spokesman for the Republican National Committee noted that Chairman Ray Bliss already is on record favoring a tax break on contributions.

Democratic Chairman Lawrence O'Brien wrote in a party publication last week in favor of changing the campaign financing laws to make small campaign contributions tax deductible.

Party leaders were less willing to comment, without further study, on other proposals by the CED.

One is for a presidential preference primary to be held in all states on the same date. Another is to scale down the number of delegates from the present thousands to about 550 at each convention.

"I am inclined to think that is a little extreme," Byrnes said of the proposal for a sharp cutback in the number of convention delegates. Seats at the convention are a traditional reward for faithful volunteer party workers.

The CED report also recommended that some election costs should be met by government at various levels.

It also said the "equal time" rule should be repealed to permit broadcasters to schedule political programs freely.

Both corporations and unions should be barred from using company funds or union dues for political purposes, the report said, and the present ceilings on

Urges Exercise

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A physical education expert recommends an hour-a-day of exercise for the average American male especially middle-agers—saying that's the minimum needed to "improve his body and its functioning."

Prof. Thomas Kirk Cureton of the University of Illinois told a recent symposium that 10 to 15 minutes of light calisthenics is "not likely to have significant effects" as a body builder and conditioner.

political spending, termed obsolete and unenforceable, should be repealed.

The committee estimated more than $250 million was spent in all 1968 election campaigns, nearly double the 1952 level.

$800,000 Stolen In Brinks Car

BOSTON (AP) — The FBI examined a key and police visited underworld hangouts today for a clue in the hijacking of some $800,000 from a Brinks armored car Saturday four blocks from the scene of the $12 million Brinks robbery in 1950.

Two men used a key to open the door of the parked truck, surprising a guard, Richard E. Haines, 43, of Tewksbury, who was alone in the vehicle while his two teammates took a coffee break.

Police said the robbers could not have entered the truck if inside bolts on the truck doors had been latched. None were in place, investigators said.

A key was found later at the scene of the robbery. Company officials said it was not issued by Brinks.

Felix A. Savage Jr., manager of Brink's Boston office, said "as near as I can ascertain the total (taken) will be in the area of $800,000."

An audit was started Sunday to determine how much of the loot was in cash.

The robbery was the 13th of a money express truck in eastern Massachusetts since 1950.

Haines said the robbers, who wore ski masks and gloves, handcuffed Haines' wrists and manacled him in the back of the truck, drove several blocks to a parking lot near the Registry of Motor Vehicles, transferred the money into a vehicle driven by a third man and fled.

He was disarmed, but police said they found his gun and those belonging to the other guards in the truck.

Haines told police he worked his way out of the handcuffs and walked to a nearby police station and reported the hijacking.

Business Sacrifices Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's top economic advisers have marked their last days in office by calling on business and labor to make "mutual short-term sacrifices" by accepting new guide lines for voluntary wage and price restraints.

In a report to President Johnson Sunday, the Cabinet Committee on Price Stability recommended that the six-year-old guide posts of 3.2 per cent increases be boosted in 1969 to "a little less than 5 per cent" for wages and that price hikes be kept at about the same level as 1968.

The report also suggested that business absorb the first 1 per cent in costs without increasing prices to the consumer. Prices on consumer goods increased more than 4 per cent in 1968, the report noted.

There was no immediate reaction from business and labor, both of which generally ignored the 3.2 per cent guide lines set by the Kennedy administration in 1962.

The future of the guide lines remains in doubt, anyway, since the Nixon administration may have its own ideas on how to cope with the wage-price spiral.

A spokesman acknowledged the Nixon administration was not consulted on the guide posts proposal, which he described as essentially nonpolitical.

The Republicans who will take over the running of the government on Jan. 20, he said, "are aware, as we are aware, that the biggest, most over-riding economic problem in the United States is the problem of combining prosperity with price stability."

Members of the committee instructed by Johnson last February to draw a blueprint for a return to stable prices, were the chairmen of the Council of Economic advisers, the director of the Budget Bureau, and the Secretaries of commerce, treasury and labor.

The long-term goal, the Cabinet officials said, is still the 3.2 per cent standard because it approximates the year-to-year growth of productivity, providing a handy way of distinguishing inflationary and noninflationary increases.

It would be "unrealistic" to expect the combination of tight management by the government and self-restraint in the private side of the economy to yield price stability quickly, the report said.

"Given the recent history and the outlook for the cost of living," the message said, "labor cannot be expected to accept wage increases in 1969 limited to the trend growth of productivity."

"Nor can businessmen be expected to respond to substantial cost increases without reflecting these at least part in higher prices."

What the new guide posts can do if they are observed, a spokesman for the committee said, is to bring the economy "half-way back" to conditions in which 3.2 per cent goals would again seem feasible.

Wage settlements in 1968, the report noted, have been running out 6½ per cent.

President Johnson made no formal immediate response to the committee's recommendation.

He will have at least two opportunities to mention the guide posts in coming weeks, when he presents his budget to Congress and delivers his annual economic message.

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese scientists said today they believe Communist China's latest hydrogen bomb explosion was the cleanest of China's eight nuclear tests.

The Japanese Radioactivity Countermeasure Center said this was indicated by the lack of fallout registered in Japan since the bomb was detonated Friday over the Lop Nor testing grounds in western China.

Fallout from China's seven previous nuclear tests was detected in Japan within two days after they were conducted.

The center said Japanese jets collected samples of radioactive dust that were 10 counts above normal over Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island. But it said the radioactive count was too low to have resulted from the Chinese test.

Scientists at Niigata University, 200 miles north of Tokyo, detected radioactive particles in rain water Sunday and believed it resulted from the Chinese test. But they said all the fissionable particles were too weak to be analyzed properly for information on the purity of the bomb.

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A battalion of Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese troops attacked a strategic town in southern Laos near the Cambodian border but lost 50 dead in a 25-hour battle with government forces, the Laotian Defense Ministry announced today.

A spokesman said three government soldiers were killed and 20 were wounded during the town of Attapeu.

The spokesman said two Communist companies also fired 20 artillery rounds into Saravane, 60 miles north of Attapeu, but inflicted no casualties. He said government forces retaliated with artillery fire and air strikes, silenced the enemy guns, and inflicted heavy casualties.

The commander in chief of the Royal Laotian armed forces, Gen. Ouane Rathkone, said Friday that 4,000 North Vietnamese troops had moved into southern Laos from Cambodia and were waiting for an opportunity to infiltrate into South Vietnam.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government gave some 9 million workers in the building trades and related industries an unexpected New Year's gift today—a wage increase ranging up to 25 per cent.

The big boost, another example of the increasing use of material incentives in the Soviet economy, raises the average construction worker's weekly salary from about 29 rubles to 36 rubles, or from $31.90 at the official rate of exchange to $39.60.

The wage increase came amid a campaign to step up housing construction to ease the overcrowding that is still the lot of much of the urban population.

LONDON (AP) — Sean Connery, a Scotsman as well as the star of the James Bond movies, has been asked to run for parliament as a candidate of the Scottish Nationalists.

Connery has "Scotland Forever" tattooed on his right arm and spoke up strongly in favor of home rule for the Scots during a recent TV show.

Ian MacDonald, organizer of the Scottish Nationalist party, said today that the actor "has been approached to stand for Parliament in one of the Scottish constituencies, but he has not yet indicated his decision."

WHY CHIROPRACTIC X-RAYS?

By Carl J. Hamilton, D.C.

Have you Had your annual chest x-ray? Had your annual complete Physical check-up? Had your vision checked?

Nearly everyone these days follows a routine practice of good common sense health care... This is Good! Unfortunately, however, the importance of a thorough chiropractic x-ray examination is overlooked by some.

The question -- Why Chiropractic X-Ray? -- sometimes arises and this I would like to answer.

There are two major reasons why your chiropractor may recommend x-ray in the diagnosis of a case. They are first pathological. This means simply that your Doctor of Chiropractic feels that it is his responsibility to be certain there are no complications in your case which might prevent or delay your recovery. The x-ray is the very best means by which he can "look inside" and determine the exact condition of the many parts of the body, and answer the questions that occurs in every case -- are there any fractures, bone disease, malformations, dislocations, etc.?

The decision to accept or refer your case, which is so important to you, rests to a large degree upon this portion of the Chiropractic examination. Frequently a condition which may seem only a simple problem on the surface, may actually be the beginning of something really serious. It is not uncommon to discover by x-ray examination one or more complications in patients who consult their Doctor of Chiropractic for relief of such seemingly simple conditions as a "crick in the neck" or supposedly "acute" back ache or pain.

Analytical is the second reason for x-ray. Once your chiropractor has established the fact that there is nothing present which would prevent you from obtaining the results you seek, he has still another question to answer--what is the basic, underlying cause of your condition; is it correctable; and what needs to be done to correct it? Many patients have tried other methods of treatment without results. Many have even had previous x-ray examination and failed to locate the cause of the trouble. This is entirely possible, but does not mean that the cause cannot be found and corrected--it simply means that further search must be made, until the real cause is found.

Remember this "A thorough Chiropractic X-Ray examination could be the 'key' to the lock which may be keeping you in ill health. It is worth considering.

grant aggressive acts." He chided the United States for condemning Israel while at the same time selling her Phantom jets.

Lebanon's U.N. representative, Edward Ghorra, noted that Israel has repeatedly defied U.N. resolutions of condemnation. He demanded that the Security Council take "effective measures under Chapter Seven" of the U.N. charter, which provides for economic, political and military action against countries breaching or threatening international peace.

The Israeli delegate told the council the attack on the Beirut airport was "taken to uphold Israel's basic right to free navigation in international skies. Its purpose was to show once again that Israel's rights on land and sea and in the air cannot be jeopardized with impunity."

In Tel Aviv, Eshkol said Israel has "no interest in worsening our relations with Lebanon." But he added: "We cannot accept the violation of air routes. This tactic adopted by our enemies must stop

1968 State Yields

Corn Production was 22 per cent above production for last year. The average yield for the State was a record 83 bushels per acre, a sizable gain over the 69 bushels per acre harvested in 1967.

Soybeans was a record 28 bushels per acre in 1968 compared to 22 bushels per acre in 1967.

Wheat yield per acre this year at 33 bushels per acre is one bushel above the yield for 1967.

All-hay yield at 1.99 tons per acre was slightly above last year's yield due to the excellent growing season this year.

Sorghum yield per acre at 66 bushels was eight bushels above last year.

Additional Space

A test on feeding hogs to a test on feeding hogs to heavy weights has just been completed by the University of Missouri - Columbia departments of animal husbandry, agricultural economics, food science and nutrition, and a packing company in East St. Louis.

Pigs on this trial were placed on test May 13 on a complete slotted-floor unit and randomly allotted to treatments to be slaughtered at weights of 220, 240, 260, 280 and 300 pounds.

Twelve pigs per pen were placed on these treatments with a total of 10 square feet of floor space for each one. In addition, eight pigs were placed in groups to be slaughtered at weights of 220, 260 and 300 pounds. These eight pigs had a total of 15 square feet space for each.

Feed requirements for a pound of gain increased over 240 pounds weight and again over 280 pounds. Feed requirement was considerably less on the heavy hogs than in many studies conducted on feeding hogs to these weights.

Additional space per hog apparently improved feed efficiency figures. This was most evident on hogs carried to the 300 pound weight. Backfat increased as pigs were fed to heavier weights, and per cent lean cuts decreased.

However, backfat was not excessive, averaging slightly over two inches on the 300 pound hog.

Must Hold

Missouri soybean prices averaged $2.34 a bushel in September and October, 1968, about 13 cents below the season average for 1967.

In "Agricultural Outlook For 1969," agricultural economists at the University of Missouri - Columbia, say any major advance in prices will depend on farmers' storing large quantities of this year's production.

However, the prices of soybean futures indicate that soybean dealers, processors, and speculators doubt that farmers will hold enough soybeans to bring a strong price advance.

As a result of the prospective buildup in soybean stocks, there will probably be pressure developed to lower the 1969 soybean support price below $2.50 per bushel.

Feeding Seminar

Discussions of the cattle feeding industry in the Corn Belt and the Great Plains areas — competition facing the Missouri cattle feeder — will highlight a cattle feeding seminar to be held January 16 and 17 in the Livestock Center. The event will be co-sponsored by the Missouri Live Stock Feeders Association and the Missouri Cattlemen's Association.

Registration will begin at 10 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 16, with the program beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Joe Ewing, manager of a cattle feed lot in southwest Missouri, will kick off the program outlining the purpose of the meeting.

R.D. Johnson, agricultural economist at the University of Nebraska, and Bob Finley, UMC agricultural economist, will discuss the status of the feeding industry in the Corn Belt; John Goodwin, Oklahoma State University agricultural economist, will look at the status of the feeding industry in the Great Plains.

At noon on the first day, visiting cattlemen will look at a group of live cattle and evaluate them for cutability and marketing. The next day, the carcasses will be re-evaluated.

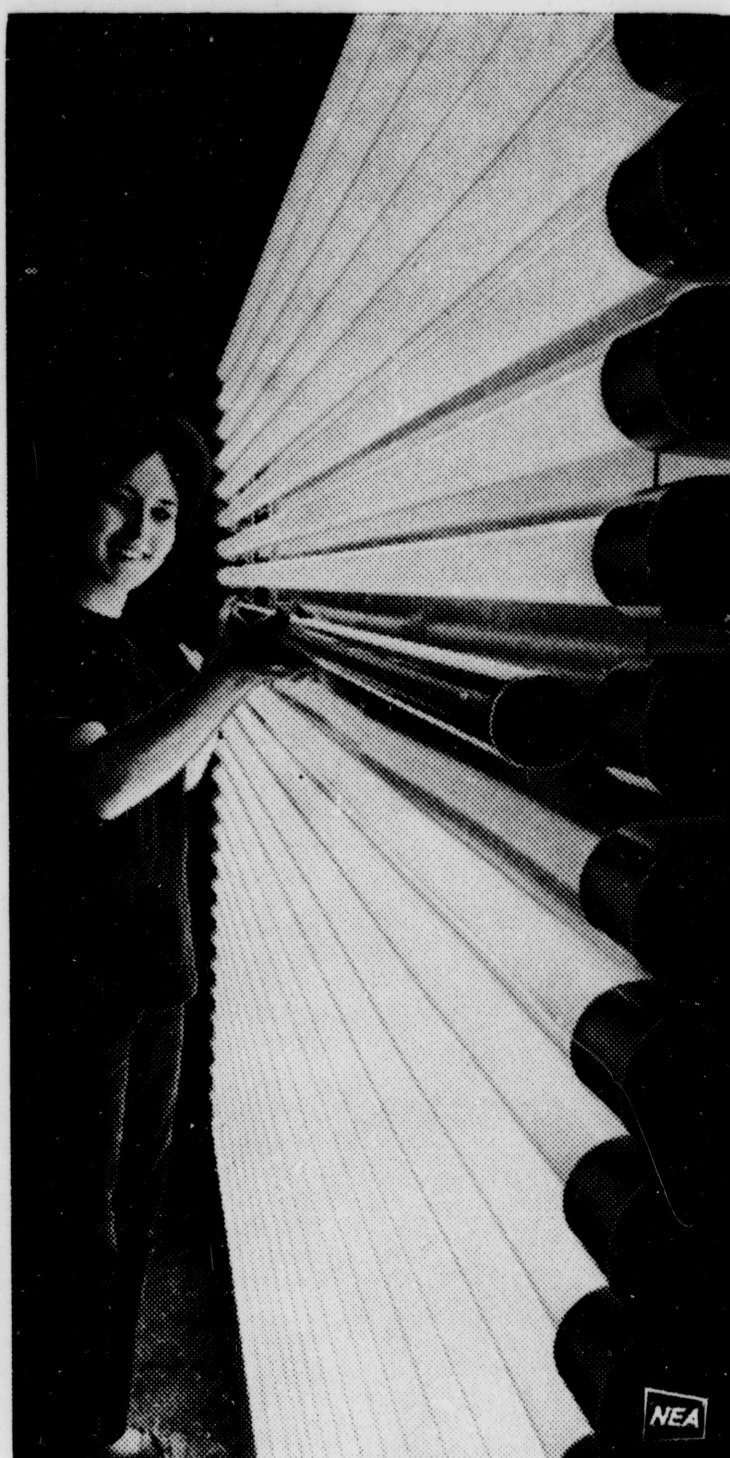

Immediately preceding the re-evaluation, Bob Lear, a meat merchandiser for Associated Grocers, Kansas City, will tell "What We Want to Buy For Our Store," and A.J. Dyer and G.B. Thompson, UMC animal husbandry department, will discuss what it takes to produce high cutability beef.

Among other topics to be discussed are: "Health Program for Receiving and Feeding Cattle," "Intensive Livestock Feeding and the Nuisance Laws," "What is Pollution?" "Systems for Waste Disposal," "Feed Purchase Evaluation," "Feeding Systems that Utilize Corn Crops," "Cattle Outlook," and "Mineral Problems."

The banquet to be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, will be presided over by Elmer Kiehl, dean of the College of Agriculture. Harold Breimyer, agricultural economist at UMC, will discuss "Bargaining Power for Cattle Feeders."

A registration fee of $15 will include the Thursday evening banquet.

Helping Others Main New Year's Resolution

By LISA CRONIN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Competition and making money took second place to helping others when a group of business and financial leaders were asked to suggest New Year's resolutions for everyone.

"I would hope that everyone resolves to do his utmost to see what private business can do to help further the cause of equal opportunity for black people and other underprivileged people in the United States," said Hobart Lewis, president of the Reader's Digest.

Muriel Siebert, the only woman ever elected to membership in the New York Stock Exchange, urged people to "sit down and realize where they started from and help other people get somewhere."

"There are two things—making money and leading a good life," said this self-made woman. "Part of leading a good life is helping people."

"If we all resolve to listen more carefully to what the other fellow is saying—in business, in relationships with other countries, with our children and young people, with our disadvantaged and disaffected fellow citizens—we'll have a better year in 1969," said Louis F. Laun, president of Celanese Fibers Marketing Co.

Uniroyal Inc. president and chairman George R. Vila tackled what some people consider the nation's top economic problem.

"If the average man will resolve to make his efforts in 1969 just five per cent more productive than they have been, he will make an extremely valuable individual contribution to the fight against inflation," he said.

"Time is running out on us," warned Paul Hoffman, who heads the United Nations Development Program. The former Marshall Plan chief called 1969 a crucial year in "the war on poverty of opportunity."

Proper self-management was stressed by Charles S. Jensen, president of C.I.T. Corp., industrial financing and leasing subsidiary of C.I.T. Financial Corp.

"Every businessman should resolve to strike a proper balance among his various responsibilities—his business, his family, his community and his other obligations," Jensen said.

Cartier Inc. President Joseph Liebman resolved to "humanize our business in such a way so that our customers will feel how grateful we are for their presence."

Finds That Hollywood Changes

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene—

Her dark beauty undiminished Gene Tierney returned to the studio scene for her first acting assignment since "The Pleasure Seekers" four years ago. This time she was performing at Warner Brothers for "The F.B.I." in which she played a citizen of a retirement city who becomes involved with the Mafia.

At 48, the famed portrayer of "Laura" seems far from eligible for retirement, and she admits that she would like to work more often. "But they don't seem to make many pictures here any more," she observed.

Miss Tierney came here from Houston where she lives as the wife of oilman Howard Lee. Now a grandmother, she commented: "I used to think I'd have nothing to do if I stopped working. I haven't found that to be true."

The continuation of "Hawaii" is shaping up with the Mirisch Company. The James Michener novel, which contained enough plot for six movies, will again be filmed, this time as "The Hawaiians." The plot will carry the epic into the 20th century, during the ascendancy of the Japanese and Chinese populations.

Filming is expected to begin in Hawaii next June, and Charlton Heston will probably be in the cast. No, not as an oriental. He'll portray a rugged land owner, grandson of the character Richard Harris played in "Hawaii."

Although production has finished on "Hello, Dolly," the movie version still can't be released for another two years under the present contract with Broadway producer David Merrick. He insisted that the release of the film be held up until the end of the Broadway run, which is nowhere in sight. The producing company, 20th Century-Fox is seeking relief, and Merrick admits that he may make concessions.

The studio won't have the same problem with "The Great White Hope," the dramatic hit of the Broadway season. The rights were bought up before the play reached Broadway, with no strings attached. Producer Lawrence Turman ("The Graduate," "Pretty Poison") expects to start filming in June on the thinly disguised biography of heavyweight boxing champ Jack Johnson.

Search Resumes For Missing Eight-Year-Old

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — A search was under way today for Sandra Fay Rush, 8, who disappeared when a car carrying 10 persons was swept off a low-water bridge into flooded Dry Fork Creek Friday night.

Two other girls drowned in the accident. They were Glenna Sue Mackey, 11, and Sandra's sister, Rhonda Kay Rush, 9. Their bodies have been recovered.

The girls were with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Rush and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mackey and three other children, on the way to their home near Jasper when the accident occurred seven miles north of Carthage.

Twelve divers and other searchers in 20 boats and three airplanes worked along a two-mile stretch below the bridge Sunday. They found Mrs.

Waitress Sought By State Officers

MOBERLY, Mo. (AP) — An investigation of the disappearance of Mrs. Gene Smothers, 18, a bride of six months, is continuing in this area.

Mrs. Smothers, a waitress in a Moberly cafe, was last seen when she got off work at 10 p.m. Friday and started driving to her home seven miles north of town.

Her husband started a search when she didn't get home by midnight. Her locked car was found parked beside U.S. 63 four miles north of Moberly.

Mrs. Anthony Sanders, who lives in the area, said she thought she heard screams about 11 p.m. Friday. She saw a car parked off the highway a block away. The car drove away and she called police.

A purse and a button believed to be Mrs. Smothers' were found near the car Sunday.

The gardener's New Year resolutions are not so different from those of the non-gardener, and the underlying motives are only too human. The gardener's resolutions relate to his world of plants, and as he takes stock of the past year, he will set up idealistic goals for the new year in an effort to achieve more perfect plants or higher yields. As with the non-gardener, these resolutions are often broken only to be made again another year. Here are a few of the much-broken type:

Resolved: To stop planting my garden three weeks before proper planting time.

Trying to get ahead of the neighbors is not reserved only for gardeners, but for the gardener it takes the form of having the first flowers or vegetables in the neighborhood. Planting when the weather is too cold accomplishes very little and often the crop will actually be delayed or must be replanted. If you must get ahead of your neighbors, start your plants in a good indoor location or greenhouse, but plant them outside at the proper time.

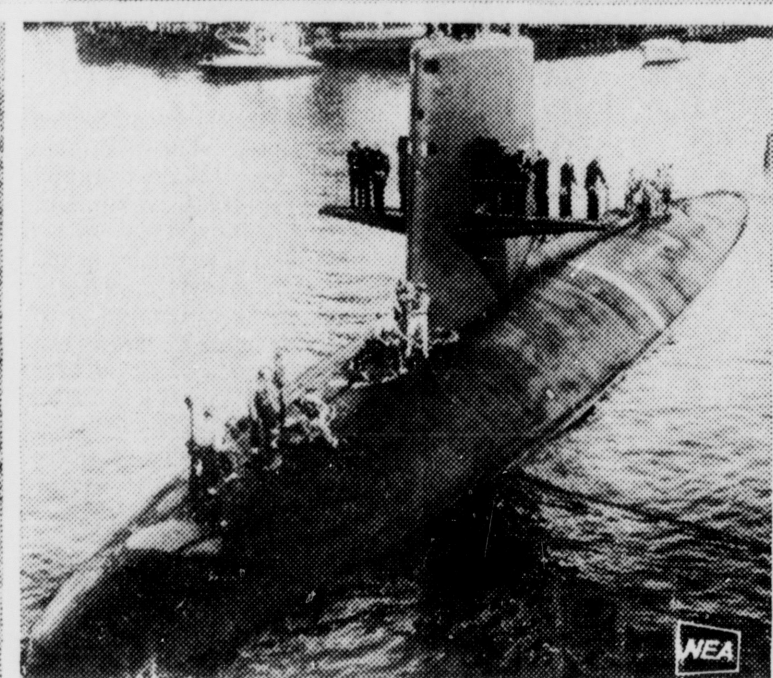

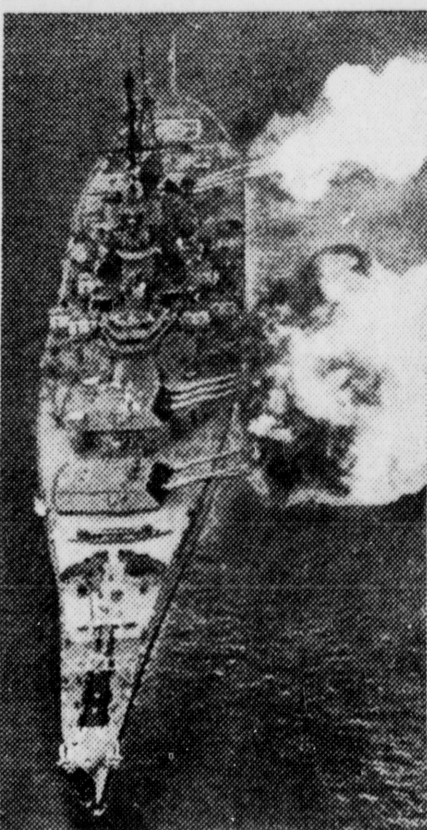

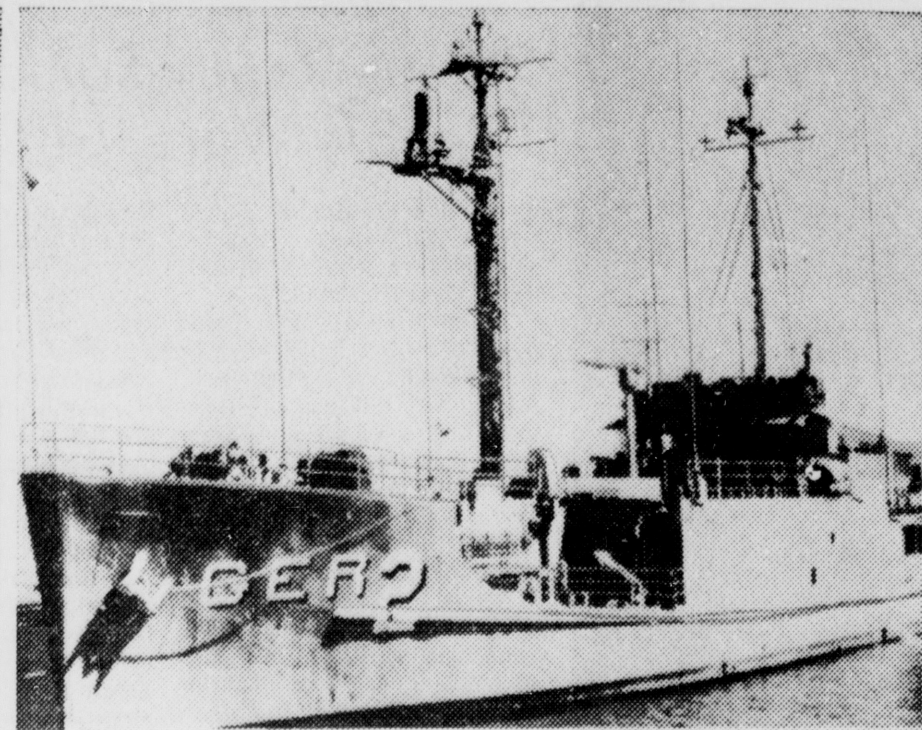

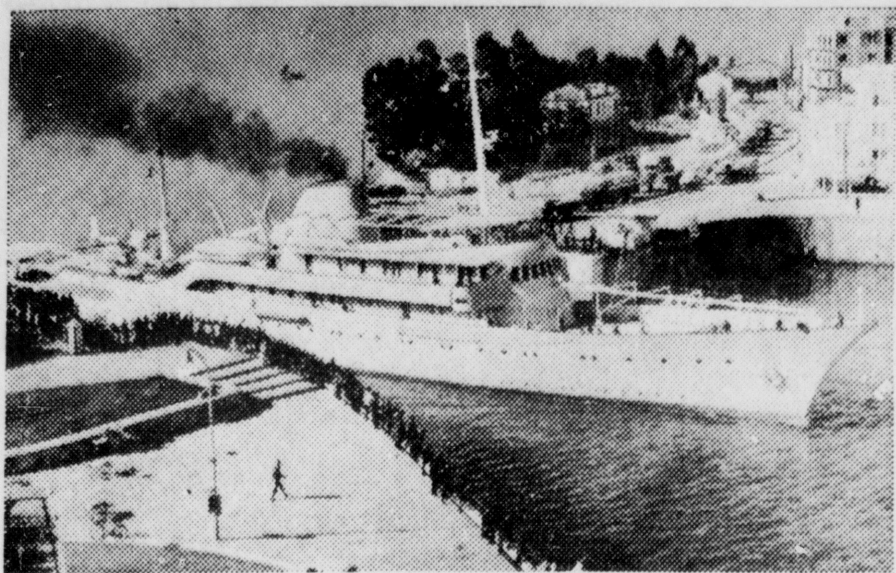

Resolved: Not to bend over and pull weeds when visiting my neighbor's garden.

Gardeners often have the impulse to pull a weed when they see it, no matter where it is located. While the intent may not be malicious, the neighbor may be somewhat insulted, particularly if he has just weeded.

Rebozo Not Invited

KEY BISCAZYNE, Fla. (AP) — The press spokesman for President-elect Nixon reads from a list those who would attend a national security briefing, including Secretary of State-designate William P. Rogers and Secretary of Defense-designate Melvin R. Laird.

"Isn't Rebozo going to be there?" asked a reporter.

"I don't think so," replied Allen Woods, the Nixon spokesman.

There would be no surprise if Charles Gregory Rebozo-known since childhood as "Bebe"—had been included at the councils.

Since 1951, Rebozo has been Nixon's companion for fishing, Bahamian relaxation, working vacations and excursions to Tijuana, Mexico.

Nixon also has followed Rebozo's lead in buying real estate. The President-elect holds $350,000 worth of Fisher Island in Miami Harbor, an overgrown 121 acres just south of Miami Beach which Rebozo once offered for sale at $5.75 million. Nixon also owns two undeveloped Key Biscayne lots worth $51,382, has just bought a $127,700 home two doors up the street from Rebozo's and is negotiating to buy the one in between from Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla.

Rebozo, 56, was born in Tampa, the youngest of nine children. His parents were from Havana. He's now president of Key Biscayne bank but has worked as a chicken-plucker, gas station attendant and newspaper delivery boy. He invested $25 from his paper route in a Florida lot and lost it in the depression.

In recent years Rebozo has further diversified his interests and now is associated with an all-Cuban Key Biscayne shopping center, a Key West title abstract company and other ventures.

He was introduced to Nixon in 1951 by Smathers while Nixon was looking for a spot to rest after his successful U.S. Senate campaign against Helen Gahagan Douglas.

Rebozo had become so close to the Nixons by the 1960 election day that the two men drove to Tijuana to relax while the nation went to the polls. Then Rebozo sat with Mrs. Nixon and the children in their hotel suite as the votes were counted.

After returning from Los Angeles Rebozo told a reporter that neither Mrs. Nixon nor the girls had been prepared for the possibility of their man's defeat by John F. Kennedy. That is the only recorded moment when Rebozo gave information about the Nixons.

The closest Rebozo has come since to discussing his hours with Nixon was a general comment included in an October interview with the Miami Herald. Rebozo's only interview since Nixon began running again.

Denies There Are Differences

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special presidential assistant Walt W. Rostow has sharply denied reports of Vietnam policy differences between key Cabinet members and says he expects no U.S. troop withdrawals until Hanoi is ready to negotiate them.

Rostow Sunday called reports of differences between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford a "rather strained effort of the press . . . to pump up the war between the members of the Cabinet."

He also said the United States has made clear its willingness to negotiate withdrawal of U.S. and North Vietnam troops from South Vietnam but that Hanoi has not responded.

Rostow said he believes there is no plan by President Johnson to reduce the U.S. troop level in Vietnam before he leaves office Jan. 20.

Rostow was interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation."

But Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said he believes there are differences between Rusk and Clifford—and said U.S. troop withdrawals should begin immediately to reduce the level of war deaths.

"Having made the judgement that there is no victory ahead," McGovern said, "and that we are going to press instead for a negotiated settlement, why not reduce the loss of American life, the loss of Vietnamese life during this period when negotiations are pending?"

McGovern appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press."

He said he believes Clifford agrees with him that the United States should reduce troop levels and move into a defensive stance but that Rusk favors mutual withdrawal of both U.S. and North Vietnamese troops.

"We do some fishing, some swimming and a lot of sunbathing. And we work, too. Dick takes along his briefcase and I take mine. We both like quiet surroundings, and he especially finds the atmosphere of Biscayne Bay a good place to think," he said.

"We just hit it off, I guess," Rebozo said of their friendship. "His ability to keep secrets is only one reason why a man like Dick Nixon would take such a liking to Bebe," said a Rebozo friend.

"But I think the most important reason for their friendship is that Bebe is a person without guile and without angles," the friend said. "Bebe would never ask anything for himself. He's one of the fastest check grabbers you've ever seen. He's the kind of guy who enjoys spending $100 to entertain his friends in an evening, but who would spend a whole night looking for a one-dollar bookkeeping error."

Ozarks Cabin Blown Up Over Weekend

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP) — An unoccupied summer cabin at the Lake of the Ozarks was destroyed by an explosion Sunday night, no one was hurt. Cause of the blast was not known.

The owner, Charles Grant-ham, a St. Louis attorney, told officers he closed the cabin a month ago and to his knowledge no one had been in it since.

The explosion blew the roof off, flattened the walls, left mattresses and other furnishings hanging in tatters.

Urban Living Seen As Possible Answer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A U.N. scientist said today the world-wide trend towards urban living poses possibilities for curbing the planet's population explosion because "crowded living" tends to encourage birth control.

Dr. Ulla Olin of the U.N.'s development program said that, for example, a newly urbanized family having "five children already in a very small apartment" is apt to practice family planning, where it might not in a rural area.

In a report prepared for the 135th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science—amplified at a news conference—Dr. Olin said the universal trend toward urbanization has special implications for curbing birth rates in developing countries.

This is so, she indicated, because the change to urban living for people in developing nations represents a sharper switch in the way of life than for people in the Western countries.

But even in Western countries, she added, "parents of the future" will mostly be urbanites—and there is already evidence that "second generation urbanites have lower fertility" than their parents, presumably because that's the way they want it.

Scenes In Maddox Yard Are Colorful

Three colorful Yuletide scenes decorate the lawn of Dr. A.R. Maddox, 509 West Johnson, during the Christmas holidays while colored lights outline the eaves of the house.

Standing near the front doorstep of the home are three snowmen bearing presents. There are several large presents setting nearby on the ground.

The middle scene of the setting facing the north depicts four traditional carolers in robes singing their songs of praise and merriment.

The largest scene, which sat in the corner of the spacious lawn, depicts the wisemen, Joseph and others and the manger.

getting the car off the bridge. Trooper Charles Pieper, the investigating officer, estimated the damage to the car at $200.

She spoke at a special symposium on "population density and crowding." Without challenging her views on possibly beneficial effects of crowded living, various other scientists on the panel said use of animals under enforced crowded living conditions suggests a grim picture of what humans may experience in crowded cities.

For example, Dr. Kenneth Myers of Australia's Commonwealth and Scientific Industrial Research Organization said recent studies among rabbits produced new and strengthened evidence that crowding in mammalian populations produces "profound changes in behavior and physiology."

He said adult rabbits showed increased sexual and aggressive behavior, heightened activity of "stress" hormones, reproductive abnormalities and "pathological consequences involving kidneys, liver and other organs of the body."

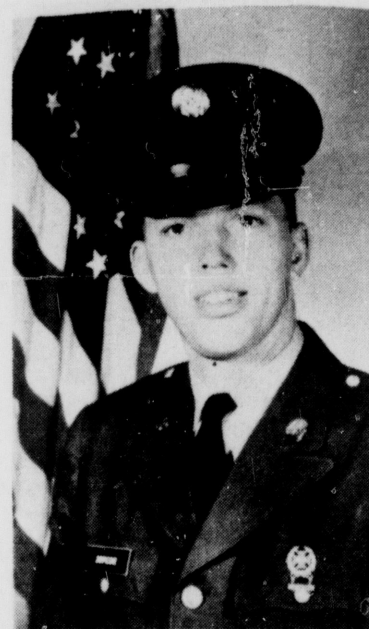

Rabbits born in such a crowded environment proved "less fit" than free-ranging bunnies, he said.

Medicine Wasn't Meant for Him

RAYTOWN, Mo. (AP) — The chills and fever of influenza had racked Oscar Pettijohn of this Kansas City suburb for several days so he telephoned his physician and asked for a cold medicine prescription to be refilled.

Pettijohn's wife picked up the medicine at the pharmacy but Pettijohn said he noticed the pills were not the usual drab, gray capsules but rather a bright orange. He read the instructions and, next day, sent back the birth control pills in exchange for the medicine he had ordered.

Could Survive Mars

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — Some earth plants—especially onions—may be able to survive under the harsh conditions of mars, says Dr. Frank B. Salisbury, who mistreated the plants in laboratories at Utah State University. He said molds and winter rye also can survive conditions similar to those on Mars.

More Drama In Daily News Events

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The most dramatic moments of television in 1968 came not in its show business function but in its news coverage.

Television cameras permitted a nation to share in the tragedy of two assassinations; to react to disturbances on city streets; to see war and fighting men in close-up, and to glory in an adventure that took men around the moon.

It was a year in which most Americans attended, through television, the funeral services of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. We shared the vigil outside the hospital where Sen. Robert F. Kennedy lay dying. We saw the President of the United States as he told us he would not seek re-election. And television took us through every step of the complicated and sometimes turbulent process that led to the election of his successor.

The nation and the world are still marveling at the way television permitted us to follow the astronauts a quarter-million miles into space and back.

Television also presented thoughtful and thought-provoking documentaries on the problems of the Negro and the troubles of the cities. A report on hunger in America was a shocker. Day in and day out we saw the agony of Vietnam. And there was baseball, hockey, basketball, golf and football and more football.

There were some especially happy events on the entertainment side. There was, for instance, that fine adaptation of the stage play, "A Case of Libel," some absorbing original drama, including "The People Next Door." Vladimir Horowitz was presented in a glorious hour of music and we saw Barbra Streisand giving a concert in Central Park. There were many more.

A slam-bang, fast-paced comedy hour made its debut last January and soon "Laugh-In" had become the nation's most popular weekly program. A situation comedy with two attractive Negro performers, Dian Parkinson and Marc Copage, made its debut in September and soon "Julia" was the season's most solid hit.

There was nothing particularly memorable, sad to relate, about the bulk of the year's regular entertainment shows, and, as always, some shows were dreadful.

Perhaps the worst was the industry's own, the Emmy Awards.

What kind of a year has it been? A year when, for all the griping, controversy and fall-out, the average television set was turned on for almost six hours a day.

NBC's "Roberto Rossellini's Sicily," on Sunday night was a promising special if only because of the name of the noted Italian film director. But it turned out to be a standard—albeit affectionate—travelogue. The emphasis was on local color, native festivals, scenery, cathedrals and art, its glorious Greek past and harsh present. It was a pretty slow moving hour although occasionally there was some splendid photography.

Trouble Over the 'Queen'

ABOARD THE QUEEN ELIZABETH (AP) — Britannia's newest ocean pride, the liner Queen Elizabeth 2, steamed homeward at half speed today amid a growing uproar over her trouble-filled shakedown cruise.

The Cunard Line announced it had refused to accept delivery of the 65,000-ton ship, which cost $69.8 million, until the builders cleared up "thermal expansion" problems in the ship's two turbine engines and completed their work in the passenger and service areas.

Making 14 knots, the liner was expected to reach Southampton Thursday. The repairs are expected to take at least three weeks, and Sir Basil Smallpiece, Cunard's chairman, canceled a warmup four-day cruise Jan. 10 and the Queen's maiden transatlantic voyage to New York on Jan. 17.

More than 3,000 persons had been booked for the two trips.

In Britain, demands increased for a government inquiry into the QE2's troubles. About two thirds of her construction costs were paid from government loans. Newspaper commentators all agreed the ship's faults went beyond the troubles expected on any shakedown cruise.

The public wants a complete account of what went wrong, how it happened and where the blame is to be laid," said the Daily Express.

The Daily Telegraph commented: "For an acceptance trial to be failed by a ship of such prestige must be unprecedented in modern times."

The liner left the Clyde shipyard in Scotland last month for speed trials during which it developed an oil leak that forced cancellation of a Christmas charity cruise.

It sailed Dec. 23 from Greenock, Scotland for a 10-day shakedown cruise to the Canary Islands. Aboard were 500 Cunard employees and their families to test the ship's facilities and 250 workmen who were to complete outfitting the vessel.

Engine trouble developed Christmas Eve, when the starboard high pressure turbine started running rough. The rotors in the turbine were found to be out of balance, a fault that was later detected in the port turbine as well. Speed was reduced immediately.

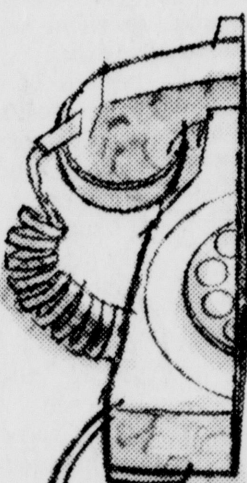

Smallpiece and Anthony Heper, chairman of the Upper Clyde Shipbuilders, which built the QE2, flew out to the liner Saturday. They conferred through the night, and, at a Sunday morning news conference, Smallpiece announced the decision not to accept delivery.

He said the general unreadiness of the QE2 "would not only prevent the ship carrying its full complement of passengers but would allow no chance to reach Cunard's standards."

"In no circumstances are Cunard Lines prepared to sail QE2 on a commercial voyage until they are satisfied that they can maintain their standards," Sir Basil declared.

"The timing may be adrift, but when she's ready this will still be the most wonderful ship in the world."

A Happy Loren Has Her Baby

GENEVA (AP) — Flowers and congratulations poured in today for Sophia Loren, made radiantly happy by the birth of her first child after four miscarriages.

After 11 years of marriage to film-producer Carlo Ponti, the 34-year-old star gave birth by Caesarean section Sunday to a 7-pound 11-ounce boy at the Geneva State Hospital. Mother and son were reported in perfect health.

The baby was named Carlo Jr.

"Thank you for my baby," were Miss Loren's first words after she recovered consciousness and her gynecologist, Prof. Hubert de Watteville told her of the birth. Then she telephoned her mother in Italy.

Ponti, 55, had a look at his son before his wife woke up.

"He is beautiful—dark blue eyes and light brown hair," he told newsmen. European television viewers saw the baby briefly Sunday night. "He looks exactly like his father," said a Geneva housewife.

Because of her previous difficult pregnancies, Miss Loren had spent the past six months in a Geneva hotel suite, under constant observation by De Watteville. He is an internationally

But Christina Migiwa Ebisawa, 19, said she had seen worse slums in her native Tokyo.

De Watteville told newsmen he felt that the role of nutrition was decisive and that he made sure that Miss Loren received the correct balance of hormones, vitamins, and minerals.

Miss Loren is expected to stay in the clinic for about 10 days and is likely to remain in Geneva for another month or so for regular examinations by De Watteville.

Cave Man's Message

The cave man is another maligned minority group.

According to the 17th-century philosopher Thomas Hobbes, the life of prehistoric man was "solitary, nasty, brutish and short." There were no arts, no society, but constant fear and danger of violent death.

This opinion was delivered two centuries before the discovery of amazingly "modern" and unbelievably ancient paintings of animals in a cave at Altamira, Spain.

Even so, these masterpieces, and others found later, are still usually explained as magical aids in hunting sketched by hungry men struggling for survival.

One contemporary philosopher disagrees. Writing in Think magazine, self-educated longshoreman-philosopher-political scientist Eric Hoffer argues that the cave painters lived in a hunter's paradise. Food was almost no problem.

Other archeological evidence indicates that they were expert tailors, who clothed themselves in sable and other fancy furs. They sported beautifully carved swagger sticks of mammoth ivory, engraved pendants and shell necklaces. They were sportsmen, with the leisure to develop artistic skills.

The artistic impulse came first, says Hoffer, and any magical use came later, just as with Michelangelo and other religious painters.

Prehistoric man painted animals because he worshiped them as his betters. They were superbly skilled and equipped specialists while he was an amateur, with no claws or fangs or horns to fight with, no special adaptations for swimming, climbing or running.

"Man's being an unfinished, defective animal has been the root of his uniqueness and creativeness," says Hoffer. "He is the only animal not satisfied with being what he is."

The most crucial consequence of this incurable unfinishedness is that man cannot truly grow up. He is the only perpetually young thing in the world.

But it takes leisure to be a child. Thus, to Hoffer, the coming of automation is not a threat but "a grand consummation."

"Man first became human in an Eden playground, and now we have a chance to attain our ultimate destiny, our fullest humanness, by returning to the playground."

From cave to computer is a vastly long haul, but it is just possible that the inhabitant of the one has something valuable to tell the user of the second.

Nixon Will Review REA Loan Policy

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — One policy which the Nixon administration is sure to review — and probably end — is the 30-year-old practice of loaning federal money to rural electric co-ops at two per cent interest, only to have them turn round and use the money to supply power to private industry, not farm electrification. In some cases, they have even taken two per cent government funds and loaned them at commercial bank rates of six and seven per cent.

The Rural Electrification Administration was set up during the days of the New Deal to spur electrification on the farms where it was then badly needed. In the three decades that have passed the farms have become pretty well electrified, and the REA co-ops have branched out into high-powered advertising, high-powered lobbying, and supplying power to industry, not the farmers.

A case in point recently caused Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., to get on the telephone from Hong Kong, where he is on an "inspection" trip, to try to stop an REA government loan to supply power to Dow Chemical.

Dow, one of the biggest chemical firms in the USA, is by no stretch of the imagination a farm institution. Yet the Louisiana Electric Cooperative, part of the REA system, has been granted a loan of $46,521,000 to build generating and transmission facilities to supply power to Dow Chemical in Louisiana and the Lafayette and Plaquemine parishes of Louisiana.

Reason Sen. Ellender got on the telephone all the way from Hong Kong was not only because the proposed power facilities are in his home state, but because he is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee which rides herd on REA, a part of the Agriculture Department.

—Unseemly Haste—

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, technically boss of the REA, is known to feel that the REA co-ops have been going too far recently in supplying power to private industry rather than farmers. The current $56,521,000 loan to the Louisiana Co-op was originally authorized back in September 1964 as a political favor to Congressman Jimmy Morrison of Louisiana, then facing a tough re-election battle. Expenditure of the funds is now being contested in a court suit brought by local private utilities to block execution of the loan.

U.S. District Judge Ben C. Dawkins Jr. has issued a temporary restraining order against proceeding with the project, and has instructed both sides not to release any funds until he rules, Jan. 3, on a permanent injunction.

Meanwhile, Norman Clapp, REA administrator,

Nixon Plays It Straight With Bosom-Pals Cabinet

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

President-elect Richard Nixon's cabinet is in important part and, to a degree not equalled in many years, an extension of the White House inner circle.

It was quite accurate to say, in the immediate aftermath of the election, that his White House assistants would be the crucial factors in his governing establishment.

There was very good reason to believe then that two of Nixon's favorite advisers, Attorney General-designate John Mitchell and HEW Secretary-designate Robert Finch, might not be joining the cabinet or taking any role at all in the new government.

Mitchell, beyond question, was a reluctant draftee. Very likely he will be one of the first to go. The evidence suggests that he yielded to sustained Nixon pressure, possibly buttressed by the fact that in the fairly short interval between election and cabinet formation the new president could not find another suitable candidate for the post of which he had made so much in his campaign.

It is plain, too, that Nixon wants Mitchell on the scene not just as attorney general but as a personal adviser in the critical opening months of his regime.

The curious notion exists, incidentally, that an incoming chief executive ought to be able to find, in a few short weeks if necessary, the ideal man for any high post. The truth is, as any private enterpriser will attest, that hunting for special and high talent can be one of the most difficult and protracted operations to be undertaken.

The Nixon people, for instance, tried for 11 months to fill a significant personal post with a more or less "ideal man." The search failed.

As with Mitchell, Nixon leaned hard on Finch to come aboard. The early, informed judgment was that he would not, because his high political ambitions were deemed to be linked to his California base as lieutenant governor.

Only after incumbent Sen. George Murphy said he was going to run again in 1970, and Finch was satisfied he had done all he could to put his political house in order through conversations with Gov. Ronald Reagan with regard to a successor as lieutenant governor, did he finally clear the way to acceptance.

Thus, again by a somewhat tortured process, Nixon got another personal adviser into his cabinet. But, if for any reason Murphy reverses himself and decides not to seek re-election, the betting is Finch will quickly jump at the chance to contend for that Senate seat and get back on the standard political ladder.

No one at all familiar with the Nixon planning has any idea that the presence in the cabinet of another reasonably close associate, Rep. Melvin Laird, the new secretary of defense, was a matter of long design.

It was instead the quick consequence of a late-hour turnaround by Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who had privately accepted the job but later yielded to Democrats' pressures and changed his decision.

Still basically an untold story is how and when Nixon brought another old friend, William Rogers, into the picture for secretary of state. His naming was the best kept secret of all the cabinet appointments.

The net of all this is that if things had just fallen a little differently, the Laird, Mitchell and Finch posts might well have been filled by strangers and—with Rogers the sole major exception—it would not be possible to brand the cabinet as substantially populated by Nixon's personal friends.

Nixon obviously wanted Finch and Mitchell badly, so he can hardly be unhappy that a full third of his cabinet now looks like an extension of his White House circle and that consequently the whole group may be upgraded in importance.

Quite baffling is the notion heard often that Nixon should have created a cabinet of diverse types reflecting the whole political spectrum. He was elected as a Republican and nominated as a particular kind of Republican. He was chosen to govern, not to create a splashy national showcase heavy on diversity and star quality but questionable as to compatibility with Nixon. He is entitled to try it his way. If he fails, the voters can speak in 1972.

Oswald: "Our telephone bridge match against Mrs. Claire Stone and Mrs. Clarence Bailey of Champaign, Ill., represents a first in bridge history."

Jim: "The idea was that of Dick Baker of the Champaign-Urbana Courier. All pairs in the area competed and the winners played an eight-hand telephone match against us. The match was not intended to prove anything because we simply played eight hands, but a large audience in Illinois watched the ladies put up quite a game against us. They actually beat us by 280 points but they had some what the better of the cards and we don't feel disgraced."

Oswald: "The ladies played North and South but for purposes of these articles we will shift the hands so that South will always be declarer."

Jim: "Mrs. Bailey and I were sort of left out of high cards on hand No. 1. Mrs. Stone chose to open one club instead of one no-trump and as a result you wound up playing one no-trump."

Oswald: "Mrs. Stone had to lead something and she made the slightly unfortunate choice of the six of spades. Had she opened a heart I would have been held to two no-trumps. As it was, I managed to make three odd for what would have been a very good score at match point duplicate."

Jim: "The hand turned out to be a series of end plays. You kept putting Mrs. Stone in and she never had a decent lead."

Oswald: "Let's leave it to our readers to work out the whole play. The bidding is quite interesting in that many players would open Mrs. Stone's hand with one no-trump. They would consider three 10s and one nine enough extra value to warrant this bid in spite of only 15 high card points."

Jim: "We'll never know what would have happened had Mrs. Stone made this bid. I am not going to embarrass you by asking what you would have done if one no-trump had been passed around to you."

BETTY CANARY

Resolved: Good 1969

By BETTY CANARY

Another new year? Soon enough, surely. I make New Year's resolutions in August, hoping that perhaps, just perhaps, I might get started on them sometime in January.

Several times yearly, I realize that as an organizer I am a complete failure—and at exercising self-control, I'm a washout. Actually, I'm a washout when it comes to any kind of exercising.

I know 1969 will bring me some of the same things I've had to cope with in other years. For one thing, it will bring me more questions like, "Does my lizard sweat, mom?" Come to think of it—questions like that probably account for my lack of control.

I am quite sure that, along with my dull, old, ordinary failures, there is more than a good chance some brand new ones will pop up. However, I'm not going to worry about that now. For heaven's sake, I can wait. There is one lesson I'm thankful I have learned, and that is there is absolutely no point in feeling guilty about things in advance.

At our house we celebrate New Year's Day with a sort of mini-open house. It seems most people celebrate only New Year's Eve and not the day. Children are invited as well as adults and it gives us a happy start, I think.

The conversations on that day always come around to the same hopes for serenity and peace in this tense and frightened world. The parents look to their children and want to give them the love that soothes and heals and also guides and encourages. And the children have hopes and ideals, too. Their lives are not pop, pot and pornography.

Some of my most pleasant personal memories of 1968 have been given to me in letters from readers.

I'm not exactly sure what was meant in one of my favorite letters. A young man in California wrote to say, "After reading your articles, I can really believe it when my wife says our kids are driving her crazy."

I think fondly of a woman in New Jersey who wrote a beautiful letter about her son, who is serving in the Marine Corps, and about how her family celebrates Thanksgiving Day. She says she was not born in this country, and her letter makes me proud and thankful we are in America.

Then, there's the Lady Nighthawk in Mobile. She says she is "an old lady," but she fairly bubbled through to me via her letter and I know she is one of those who, no matter how long they live, never grow old. Late at night, when I am sometimes working and sometimes merely sitting and dreaming, I like to think of her.

What I wish for this friend and for everyone is a happy ending to this year. But, more than that, I hope we all have some beginnings on hand.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Real Culprit is Aging Not Thumb-sucking

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: As a child I sucked my thumb till I was 12. As a result my top jaw and teeth protrude far over the bottom ones. I also lisp when I talk. I'm 45 now and this condition seems to be getting worse as my lower jaw is settling with old age. Can anything be done? —H.H.

ANSWER: H.H. brings out an interesting point about which many of us reaching further into middle age are becoming increasingly aware. Middle age brings with it significant physical changes and problems. Our mild infirmities and our ill-proportioned features become more noticeable. The big nose becomes bigger; the prognathous jaw sticks out even more; the bird-face-receded chin becomes more retrusive; and malocclusion of teeth, and the structures they affect, become more pronounced.

Dr. Theodore Lidz, famous psychiatrist, in his excellent new book, "The Person," talks about it this way: "... The wear and tear of life add up and begin to be felt. Hair grows gray, wrinkles appear, paper must be kept at arm's length and the bifocals become necessary. The knee injured in youth stiffens at times, and aches in bad weather. A back injury may be incapacitating every now and then."

I suggest that this may be why H.H. waited until age 45 to begin complaining.

As for the cause of protrusive upper jaw and receding chin, it's likely that blame should be focused on genetic defects rather than thumb-sucking, although the latter may have been an influence.

Poor speech is a frequent relative of malocclusion and malposition of jaws, and this too, often worsens with age, keeping pace with changes in the dental apparatus.

But whereas many of our general physical infirmities and malformations get irreparably worse with age, those in and around the mouth can often be corrected. At almost any age, some types of orthodontics are done these days. And dentists knowledgeable in rehabilitative and reconstructive dentistry are producing amazing results.

An example I enjoy referring to is Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. That great lady's significant cosmetic and speech transformation after she got her new front teeth was a revelation.

Best results sometimes require that many professionals become involved: dental specialists, speech therapists and physician. This is unfortunate in a way because of the expense in time and money and effort. But your own dentist may be the prime performer in this work, and at least should be its coordinator.

CHECKING THE JUMP SCHEDULE before loading up with a stick of sky divers are Lucinda and Dale Gates. On this flight, Dale will pilot the airplane while his wife stays on the ground to monitor the drop zone.

Sky-Diving Lass Lives A Life That Chutes Her

By CARL KOVAC
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARKMAN, Ohio — (NEA) — The first time she met him, Lucinda Sharp fell for Dale Gates—2,800 feet, to be exact.

That was back on Oct. 1, 1966, the day Lucinda, then a senior Spanish major at Hiram College, logged her first parachute jump. Gates was her pilot and jump master. Today they are married and own and operate the Cleveland Sport Parachute Center in this small community 37 miles east of Cleveland.

It wasn't exactly love at first sight. Lucinda, 23, a curly brunette who stands 5-9 in her thick-soled, cushioned jump boots, had things other than romance on her mind—things like getting from airplane to ground in one piece.

In fact, she and Dale didn't get to really know each other until after she broke her leg in a bad landing about six weeks later. "I wanted to stay active in the school while my leg mended, so I came up regularly from Hiram to help with chute packing and other chores," she recalls.

Love blossomed like a 24-foot canopy Para-Com-mander and three months ago they were married. It was only natural. "Dale loves to be in the air," Lucinda says. "He pilots and acts as jump master for the school and he'd jump if you gave him 28 hankies tied together, as long as he had a reserve chute. He's made over 400 jumps and has a D (expert) parachute license."

Sky diving is also Lucinda's big hang-up. She now has 178 jumps in her log book, the highest from 12,500 feet during which she fell free for 60 seconds before popping her canopy. She holds a C license, which means she is a qualified jump master. She expects to earn her D license by Christmas.

Sky diving, Lucinda believes, is the greatest cure-all since aspirin. "It's a wonderful way to relieve tension. It sharpens your reactions because it demands complete mental concentration and it's a great way to keep in shape," she says, adding that "a jump in the cold morning air is a sure (if somewhat drastic) cure for a hangover."

Some, including her husband-to-be, doubted she would ever jump again after her leg-breaking plunge. "One of the jumpers at the school bet me $10 I wouldn't go up again. I think that's what finally got me back into the air," she says.

Now she is so good at it that she teaches neophyte parachutists, performs exhibition jumps—she recently chuted into a swimming pool, shed her harness, helmet, jump suit and boots and swam out in a bikini—and occasionally plays "sky diver's bingo."

"The last time we played was at a Democratic picnic this summer. We jump at 7,500 feet and aim for one of the squares on a 40-by-40-foot target. The spectators bet on which square we'll hit," she explains.

When they aren't teaching others the fine art of sky diving, Lucinda and Dale are busy keeping up the school's 40 parachutes and two airplanes and redecorating the old farm house in which they live.

Mondays are their days off. They do their shopping and banking, go fishing (in season) or sometimes fly to Easton, Md., to visit Lucinda's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sharp.

Lucinda also substitute teaches "once or twice a week" at elementary schools in the area. "My four years in college aren't going to waste. Besides, when I teach is the only time I wear a dress," she notes. Her "uniform" at the jump school consists of skin-tight dungarees and a curve-concealing sweat shirt.

Some might think that teaching parachutists is an off-beat and exciting occupation for a girl who studied to become a Spanish language translator, but, like any other job, it has its ups and downs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key members of the Senate and House say they doubt there will be much progress in breaking the deadlock at the Paris peace

Policy Orders Awaited

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Nixon is expected to dispatch written Vietnam policy instructions to U.S. diplomats and military commanders soon after he takes office Jan. 20.

A top Nixon adviser said these instructions would define the aims of the new administration and outline specific measures required to achieve them.

The aide said such messages would go to U.S. negotiators at the Paris peace talks, to the U.S. Embassy in Saigon, and to military commanders in the field.

To prepare for Vietnam policy decisions, Nixon has assigned his top diplomatic and security aides to draw up an account of various alternatives which could be adopted.

That assignment will be to Secretary of State-designate William P. Rogers, Secretary of Defense-designate Melvin R. Laird and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's assistant for national security affairs.

After receiving those options, instead of a consensus-style policy paper, the aide said, Nixon can scan all the possibilities and decide on his administration's course.

The adviser said he could not forecast to what degree Nixon's Vietnam instructions would differ from the policy of the present Democratic administration, but he did say:

"Certainly we want the negotiations to succeed and we will make a major effort to develop policies to try to make the negotiations succeed."

The preparation of sets of alternatives is to be the standard Nixon procedure in shaping foreign policy. It was outlined at a five-hour Saturday conference which brought Nixon's top advisers on diplomacy and security to his winter retreat at Key Biscayne.

The National Security Council will meet at least every two weeks and follow this format in advising Nixon, the aide said.

"We want to avoid a situation in which the President is confronted with a consensus paper and all he can do is say yes or no," the aide said.

Saturday's conference was the major business session of a 12-day Nixon vacation.

Sunday, and again today, the President-elect resumed his secluded, leisurely holiday pace.

Nixon plans to remain at his new home on Key Biscayne until Wednesday, then fly to Los Angeles to attend the Rose Bowl football game in Pasadena.

He is due to leave California Friday for a flight to Chicago to attend a dinner honoring two of the men he chose for his Cabinet. Secretary of the Treasury-designate David Kennedy and Secretary of Labor-designate George P. Shultz.

talks until President-elect Nixon takes office next month.

And interviews also showed that the high-level dispute in the Johnson administration over the position of the South Vietnamese government at the talks is reflected in Congress.

The No. 2 Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, John Sparkman of Alabama, said he backs on setting some of the procedural disputes closing the talks in the belief that anything done before Jan. 20 "might not have any finality."

A similar view came from Pennsylvania Republican Sen. Hugh Scott, who said he expects nothing substantial from Paris before Nixon's inauguration.

At most, he said, there might be an agreement on a token withdrawal of a few American and North Korean troops from South Vietnam.

Rep. E. Ross Adair of Indiana, who will be the top GOP member of the Foreign Relations Committee in the new Congress, said he thinks that very shortly after Nixon takes office, the parties in Paris will take a new look at the situation "and we will see a revitalization of the talks and some real progress can be made."

Two Republicans on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee criticized Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford for publicly pressuring the South Vietnamese government to get on with the talks, stymied for nearly two months by disputes over the shape of the conference table and other procedural issues.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, S.D., said he feels that statements by Clifford prodding the South Vietnamese government and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, its chief delegate in Paris, have set back efforts to reach an agreement on arrangements for peace talks.

Mundt, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, noted that Secretary of State Dean Rusk has not joined in the criticism Clifford has aimed at the Saigon government.

Rusk reportedly has been concerned lest the position of the South Vietnamese be weakened by expressions of annoyance and impatience with their actions by U.S. leaders.

Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, on his return from a trip to the Far East, deplored statements blaming the South Vietnamese government for lack of progress in Paris.

He said the Saigon regime "is steadfastly maintaining the very position we have always maintained—namely, that the National Liberation Front is merely a political and military arm of Hanoi."

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana suggested that "There has been too much shilly-shallying over the start of actual negotiations in Paris and entirely too much time spent on the shape of tables and on a type of 'musical chairs,' which seem to be the bone of contention," Mansfield said.

Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said he thought the U.S. delegation should apply whatever pressure is necessary to get the discussions going.

"It seems something is happening as far as the South Vietnamese delegation is concerned," he said. "They are playing it coy." He suggested the forthcoming change of administration in the U.S. government could be behind their actions.

Sen. Sparkman also said that such as he would like to see the talks progress he doubts that sharply critical comments about South Vietnamese leaders will help.

Democratic "doves," Sens. Stephen M. Young of Ohio and George S. McGovern of South Dakota, have gone far beyond Clifford in attacking Ky and his tactics in Paris.

Young called Ky a "boastful pipsqueak" and a "little Caesar," while McGovern termed him a "little tinhorn dictator."

Colts, Jets New League Champs

Winning Teams To Grid's Super Bowl

Coach Is On Cloud Nine

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Jets, their first American Football League championship consummated by the proper champagne celebration, will arrive in Miami for the Super Bowl Thursday night, four years and one day after Jim Hudson outpassed Joe Namath in the Orange Bowl.

Hudson and Namath are on the same team now, but on opposite sides of the line. Namath, a quarterback at Alabama, has remained at that position. Hudson, a quarterback whose 69-yard touchdown pass helped Texas beat Alabama in that Orange Bowl game, has switched to safety.

The reason for the move and the non-move was all too painfully obvious to the Oakland Raiders Sunday as they watched their chances of a second straight title get swept up in the swirling wind at Shea Stadium.

The Jets, fired by Namath on offense and Hudson on defense, trimmed the Raiders 27-23 and vaulted into the Jan. 12 Super Bowl against the Baltimore Colts, who whipped Cleveland 34-0 for the National League Crown.

That means Weeb Ewbank's present team will run into his old one. Ewbank coached the Colts for nine years and won two NFL titles with them, making him the only coach to win championships in both leagues.

The Green Bay Packers won the first two Super Bowls, beating Kansas City and Oakland, and the Colts will be expected to keep the NFL streak going. But Dave Grayson, an Oakland safety, isn't so sure.

"New York has molded into a very good team," he said after the Jets halted Oakland's nine-game winning streak. "They have always been good, but they used to have times when they broke down. Today they played a great game."

"The jets have a good chance to win the Super Bowl. There's not that much difference in the leagues now. And Joe Namath is as good as any other quarterback in pro football."

Namath was not as accurate Sunday as he's been most of the season—he completed only 19 of 49 passes.

But he got the ball in the end zone when he had to, throwing touchdown passes of 14 yards to Don Maynard, 20 yards to Pete Lammons and again to Maynard for six yards and the winning touchdown with 7:47 left in the game.

Hudson's defensive moves didn't add any points to the Jets' total, but they prevented the Raiders from getting at least eight and possibly more points.

New York was leading 13-10 in the third quarter—Jim Turner had kicked field goals of 33 and 36 yards—when Hudson bolted into the Raiders' way.

On four consecutive plays, he pulled Warren Wells down at the Jet six-yard line after the split end had caught a 40-yard pass from Daryle Lamonica, stopped Charley Smith with help at the three, stopped Smith again at the two and then Jarred Hewitt Dixon to the ground on third down at the one.

Instead of getting the touchdown, the Raiders settled for one of George Blanda's three field goals.

Early in the fourth quarter, Hudson knocked down a Lamonica third-down pass to Dixon at the goal line. Again a Blanda field goal instead of a touchdown.

Finally, after end Verlon Biggs and linebacker Ralph Baker had made clutch defensive plays of their own, the 6-foot-2, 210-pound Hudson came up with the play that sealed the victory.

With 30 seconds left, Lamonica passed on fourth down to Dixon, who gained eight yards to the Oakland 47 before Hudson knocked him down. The tackle stopped Dixon one yard short of a first down and prompted Namath to call it the turning point of the game.

"That offense can score anytime it has the ball," the quarterback said. "I remember the last game in Oakland."

The game he referred to was six weeks ago, the infamous Heidi affair in which the Raiders pulled off a 43-32 victory by scoring two touchdowns in nine seconds. Hudson, incidentally, was ejected from that game for something he said to an official.

The Raiders did some pretty fast scoring this time, too.

Blanda's 20-yard field goal after Hudson knocked down the pass to Dixon cut the Jets' lead to 20-16, and on the first play after the kickoff, cornerback George Atkinson intercepted a Namath pass on the New York 37 and raced to the five. Pete Banaszak burst across for the touchdown and a 23-20 lead, Oakland's first and last of the day.

"When we got behind," Ewbank said afterward, "Joe said, 'Don't worry, we'll get it back,' and bang, we did."

It was more like bang, bang, bang.

The first bang, or pass, went to George Sauer for 10 yards to the Jet 42. The second carried 52 yards to Maynard to the six and the third put the ball in the end zone.

Atkinson, co-defensive rookie of the year who had given up 10 catches and 228 yards to Maynard in that earlier game, told about the 52-yarder.

"Maynard made a hell of a catch," the cornerback said. "I followed him step-for-step down the sideline and saw the ball good. But the wind was blowing crossways and carried the ball over his inside shoulder and he turned and caught it."

The Raiders had no such luck. Lamonica completed only one of his first 13 passes, and although he wound up passing for 401 yards he completed only 20 or 47.

"Their front four put a lot of heat on me," said Lamonica, who tossed five touchdown passes in last week's Western Division playoff against Kansas City.

This time he threw just one, a 29-yarder to Fred Biletnikoff, and that was the difference between the estimated $8,000 winner's share and $6,900 loser's.

Angel Cordero Near National Riding Crown

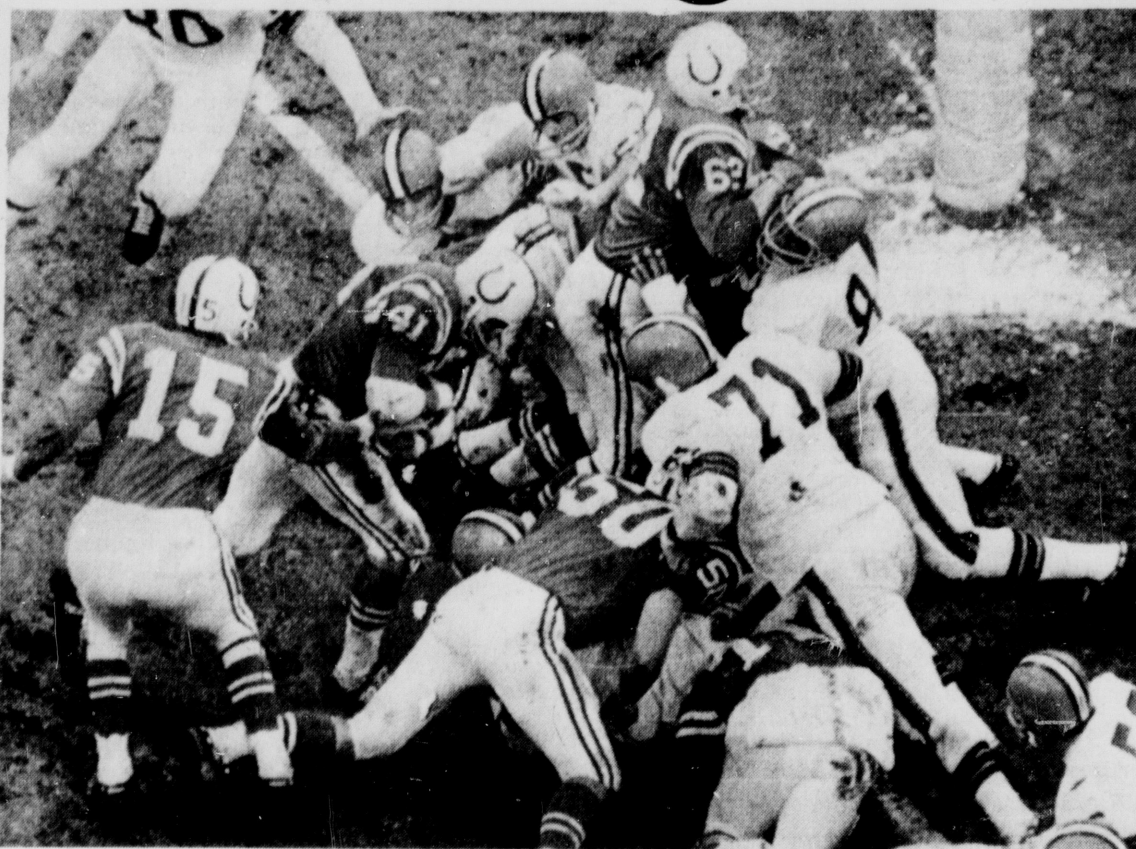

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Angel Cordero, picking up one more winner Sunday, has put his total at 345 and virtually clinched the national riding championship with a lead of 17 over Alvaro Pineda.

Pineda, in fact, practically has conceded. He didn't even ride at Agua Caliente, Mexico, where he usually spends his Sundays in search of extra winners.

He would need a victory on practically all his mounts the rest of the year to have a chance of overtaking Cordero, who had three mounts at El Comandante in Puerto Rico Sunday and scored on one.

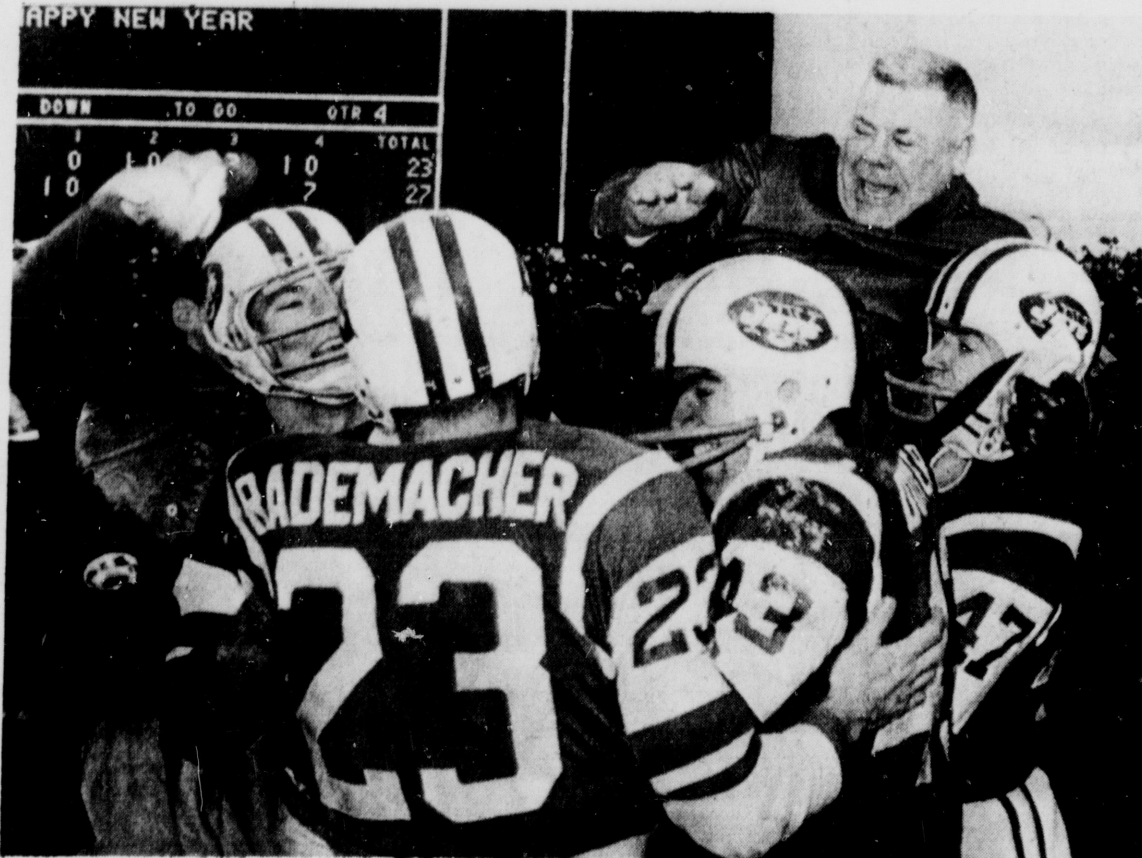

The 26-year-old jockey will remain in Puerto Rico for the rest of the year.

NFL Championship

Tom Matte, 41, pushes for his third touchdown after taking a handoff from Colt quarterback Earl Morrall, 15, in the third quarter of the NFL championship game in Cleveland Sunday. Matte's touchdown equalled a record for championship games. Colts whipped the Browns 34-0. (UPI).

AFL Championship

New York Jet Coach Weeb Ewbank is carried off Shea Stadium field by jubilant Jet Bill Rademacher, 23, John Dockery, 43, Mike D'Amato, 47, and others after the Jets beat the Oakland Raiders 27-23 to win their first AFL Championship in New York Sunday. Ewbank now leads his Jets to the Super Bowl tilt with the NFL champion Baltimore Colts, who Ewbank coached when they won their last NFL championship in 1958. (UPI).

Net Prices Going Up

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — The price has gone up for the pro tennis services of Arthur Ashe Jr. and Clark Graebner, America's Davis Cup heroes, and indications are promoters will have to pay through the nose if they're to infuse their troops with fresh new blood.

"This manifesto put out by the four big tennis nations over the weekend will make a millionaire of Arthur Ashe," said one leading official connected with the U.S. team.

Ashe himself after viewing a three-point recommendation to the International Lawn Tennis Federation by representatives of the United States, France, England and Australia, commented: "Certainly, this will affect my pro plans. I don't think anybody under these circumstances would sign a pro contract."

Graebner, hotly pursued by Lamar Hunt's so-called Handsome Eight troupe now grown to the Handsome Twelve or so, said, "My price definitely has gone up."

In thumbnail, what the big four nations did was recommend a universal player category for tournament competitors, allowing these players to accept prize money without becoming contract pros.

The group also sought to strengthen the hand of the national associations at the expense of the ILTF and lay down firm guidelines in dealing with pro promoters. It recommended that the Davis Cup be thrown open to pros as soon as possible, but said the expected machinery could not be completed before 1970.

The so-called manifesto merely suggestions of leading tennis fathers after four days of closed-door talks, appeared aimed at running the pro promoter out of business, although the architects insisted this was not the case.

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Joe Moss, defensive football coach at the U.S. Air Force Academy, used a golf cart to follow the players in spring practice. He broke his right leg skiing.

Bob Brannum, former Michigan State basketball star, coaches basketball at Kenyon College.

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I was in New York, you know. I heard a lot about Joe Namath and the Jets. I am anxious to play against him."

Earl Morrall, Baltimore's rags-to-riches quarterback, was talking in the Colts' locker room Sunday after they had wiped out Cleveland 34-0 to move into a Super Bowl date with the New York Jets on Jan. 12 at Miami.

It was Morrall's happiest day, capping many years of frustration by adding the National Football League title to his own Most Valuable Player honors after bouncing from San Francisco to Pittsburgh to Detroit to New York to Baltimore in 13 years as a pro.

"It should be interesting to play against the Jets and against Namath," commented linebacker Mike Curtis, who intercepted a Bill Nelsen pass in the rout. "I won't look at him any different than I do any other quarterback."

Coach Don Shula of the Colts, who lived four years with the humiliation of the 27-0 beating by Cleveland in the 1964 title game, was on cloud nine.

"I feel just wonderful," he said. "We've been a frustrated team for a long time but we're not frustrated now. I am looking forward to playing the Jets. I am particularly happy for Weeb." Weeb Ewbank, coach of the Jets, was the Baltimore coach when the Colts won their last previous NFL title in 1959. Shula played for Ewbank from 1954 to 1956.

There was concern in the locker room about an injury to Tom Matte, the halfback who tied a playoff record by scoring three touchdowns on runs of one, 12 and two yards. He matched the record set by Cleveland's Otto Graham in 1954 and equaled by the Browns' Gary Collins in the 1964 game.

"I caught a knee in the back and felt weak for a minute," said Matte, who collapsed in the locker room and was attended by Dr. E.J. McDonnell, the Colts' physician.

An examination conducted in Baltimore Sunday night showed Matte suffered a mild concussion and a contusion of the lower back. X rays of his rib cage were negative and doctors reported no apparent damage to his kidneys.

Matte, a former Ohio State quarterback, ran 17 times for 88 yards and caught two passes for 15 yards and a total offense of 103 yards.

The Colts' complete defense simply blanketed the Browns, whose only offensive spurts were marred by penalties. Leroy Kelly, the two-time rushing champ of the league, was shackled with 28 yards and that just about tells the story of the game watched by 80,628 chilled fans at Cleveland's snow-fringed stadium.

In addition to shutting off Kelly, who gained more than 100 yards seven times in 14 regular season games, the Colts had interceptions by Rick Volk and Curtis, a blocked field goal by Bubba Smith, a fumble recovery by Don Shinnick and four smears of the Cleveland passer.

Ordell Braase, a 36-year-old defensive end in his 12th year as a pro, was in on all four dumps of the Browns' passer. He got Nelsen once and Frank Ryan once and teamed up with Fred Miller on two other jobs on Nelsen. All in all, the four smears cost the Browns a total of 35 yards. Things got so bad in the end that Blanton Collier, the Cleveland coach, had Ryan take over for Nelsen, who completed 11 of 26 but had two picked off.

It was not one of Morrall's great passing days. He hit with only 11 of 25 for 169 yards, but his play direction was superb. The Colts, known primarily as a passing team, ran for 184 yards with Matte and Jerry Hill doing the heavy duty.

Baltimore, which shut out three opponents in regular season and allowed a league low of 144 points, blanked the Browns for the first time in 143 games, a streak running back to a 1958 Eastern Conference playoff game in New York.

Baltimore broke the ice with 17 points in the second quarter after a scoreless opening period. Following the blocked field goal by Bubba Smith, they moved in range for Lou Michaels' 28-yard field goal. After receiving a punt, they moved 60 yards in 10 plays before Matte went over from the one. Curtis' interception set the stage for a 33-yard move in three running plays, climaxed by Matte's 12-yard burst.

When two illegal procedure penalties disrupted a Cleveland march in the third quarter, the Colts struck again with the third Matte touchdown after a fine catch by Richardson completed a 38-yard gain to the five.

Michael's second field goal, a 10-yarder, and a four-yard touchdown run by Timmy Brown, just reactivated Saturday, completed the scoring.

Pull Cage Upset Of the Season

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer John Wooden might be a little disappointed with Lew Alcindor, but not Lou Carnesecca, who thinks his St. John's team has about as much chance against Alcindor and UCLA as it did against North Carolina.

Before the Redmen met the second-ranked Tar Heels, Carnesecca told a friend he only hoped his team didn't lose by 40 or 50 points. Then St. John's went out and pulled off one of college basketball's upsets of the season Saturday night by beating North Carolina 72-70 in the semifinals of the Holiday Festival in New York.

After watching top-ranked UCLA follow with a methodical 83-67 victory over Princeton in the other semi as Alcindor scored 40 points, Carnesecca is hoping now that the Redmen can stay within 40 of the Bruins in tonight's final.

"The only way you can score against them is when the big guy is called for foul-tending," Carnesecca said, referring to the domineering 7-foot-1½ Alcindor in the center. He blocked numerous shots against Princeton and was called six other times for foul-tending.

"We'll get a chance to practice our outside shooting," Carnesecca said.

"How do you stop him inside? Hope for an epidemic, or hope his arms get tired from shooting."

And to make matters worse, UCLA coach Wooden doesn't think Carnesecca has seen anything yet from Alcindor.

"I've been a little disappointed in his play in New York," Wooden said. "I thought coming home would get him up, but he hasn't seemed to be. Maybe the fact that he's been booed has bothered him."

Two other Top Ten teams,

Kansas, No. 8, and Santa Clara, No. 9, will be gunning for tournament titles tonight against upset-minded foes, while Davidson, No. 3, captured the Charlotte Invitational Saturday with a 98-76 triumph over Texas.

Kansas, a 60-55 victor over Colorado in the Big Eight semis, takes on Oklahoma State, which beat Kansas State 60-52. Santa Clara jolted Hawaii 81-59 and meets Columbia, 78-74 upset winner over 18th-ranked Purdue, in the Rainbow Classic title game.

Several other highly rated teams took home tournament crowns during the weekend while others gained tonight's finals. Detroit, No. 11 won the Motor City title with an 87-75 decision over Temple; 12th-ranked Illinois whipped Miami, Fla., 86-76 for the Hurricane Classic crown, and New Mexico State, No. 15, took the Evansville Invitational by beating Evansville 86-74.

La Salle, No. 17, will meet South Carolina for the Quaker City championship after tripping Indiana 108-88 in the semis while the Gamecocks beat St. Joseph's, Pa., 64-58.

St. Bonaventure, No. 13, did not fare as well, losing to Duquesne 89-70 in the semis of the All-College Tournament. Louisiana State gained the other final spot with a 101-85 victory over Oklahoma City behind Pete Maravich's 40 points.

Elsewhere, Southern California beat Tulsa 99-98 for the Trojan Invitational title and Houston won the Bluebonnet Classic, trimming San Francisco 87-67.

In a clash between ranked teams, Kentucky, No. 4, blasted Notre Dame, No. 7, 110-90. Villanova, No. 5, defeated Michigan State, 75-66 in a Holiday Festival consolation and Cincinnati, No. 10, stopped North Texas State 74-62.

Some Ways to Combat Those Pesky Red Ants

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—and Mrs. K. V.—To get rid of red ants, dig a hole in the center of the ant hill, insert a quart jar half-filled with detergent water and with the jar rim at ground level. Let stand for six months or until all traces or ants are gone. I do not know about freezing in winter. I did this in the summer, when it really worked since the ants crawled in and drowned. Every once in awhile I flushed out the dead ants with the hose and added new detergent water.—MARGIE

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. K. V.—Sprinkle some chlordane about six inches from the center of your ant hole so the ants have to go through it to get in and out of their home. Eventually one of them will get to the queen who dies and that is it. It may take a week or so but I have tried it and it works. If the poison should get wet, resprinkle around the hole. Also be sure to place a screen or something over the hole so children and pets cannot get into the poison. That is very important.—MARIE

DEAR POLLY—My solution for Mrs. K. V.'s ant hill is simple, quick, easy, costs nothing and works. Pour BOILING water dead-center on the ant hill. If another hill is started elsewhere, do the same. Don't worry if the grass spot is ruined, a little new soil and some seed will remedy that. I have lived in both Texas and Florida, where you fight 101 bugs constantly.—MRS. J. R.

DEAR POLLY—If Mrs. K. V. will make up a bucket of mud, then pour a pint or so of gasoline into her red ant holes and immediately dump the mud on the ant hole to keep out the air, she will find that soon there will be no more ants.—MRS. A. E.

MU, Alabama Practice To Feature New Wrinkles

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Spring football practice at Alabama and Missouri a few months from now will no doubt feature a few new wrinkles.

Coach Dan Devine just might install the power-I formation as a permanent part of his offense at Missouri. It served him well, as manipulated by junior quarterback Terry McMillan, in the Tigers' 35-10 Gator Bowl victory over Alabama Saturday.

At Alabama, Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant won't even wait until spring practice to make some changes. No team of his had been so humiliated since his first Texas A&M unit lost to Texas Tech 41-9 in 1954.

"This game will make a difference in how we prepare for next year," Bryant said. "It will make a difference in how we prepare for spring practice, how we recruit and in a lot of ways."

Although Bryant said he couldn't think of a single thing Alabama did well, pass defense had to be one. Missouri didn't complete a single pass. "They didn't need to," was Bryant's retort.

But he pledged: "We are going to start fighting anew," which may send a few shudders to Virginia Tech, the opening opponent on Alabama's 1969 schedule.

Devine, who sensed that his Tigers were keyed up for a good performance as early as four days before the game, was ready to give as much credit to his defensive platoon as to the offense.

Missouri ends Elmer Benhardt and Bill Schmitt tossed Alabama quarterback Scott Hunter and his two subs a total of a dozen times before they could throw a pass, and the Tigers made a goal line stand that forced the Crimson Tide to settle for a field goal early in the fourth quarter when a touchdown and extra point would have tied the score.

"I don't think they were used to seeing a wide-end defense," chortled Schmitt.

The defense was important, as demonstrated by Alabama's net total gain of 32 yards, but the way Missouri gained 404 yards rushing awed most of the 68,011 spectators who regard Alabama's defense against running as a trademark.

Tailback Greg Cook carried 27 times and gained 179 yards, including a 36-yard touchdown romp. McMillan ran for 76 yards and three touchdowns. Most of their yardage came off the quarterback option play off the power-I formation.

When they loosened Alabama up with that play, alternating fullbacks Ron McBride and Jim Harrison broke through the middle. They gained 68 and 58 yards respectively.

Happy as he was over the victory, All America defensive safety Roger Wehrli was disappointed that he lost a 60-yard punt return for an apparent touchdown. The play was called back because Missouri was off-side.

"I didn't have a touchdown all season and I would have liked to score," Wehrli said. "But we won big and that's what counts. We really wanted this one."

McMillan ran 4, 5 and 2 yards for three of Missouri's touchdowns, while Greg Cook scampered 37 yards from scrimmage and Dennis Poppe streaked 47 yards with a pass interception for the others. Bill Sangster kicked five extra points.

Summing it up, Devine, whose bowl teams have won four of five games, said:

"We're very, very proud and humble. I'll say this: We've never had a team more ready to play."

Then, in understatement, Devine said, "We were hoping we could run the ball successfully."

Hawks Never Like This

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Even the St. Louis Hawks were never like this, and the same might be said for the New York Knicks.

The Hawks, who moved to Atlanta this season after many a successful season in St. Louis, nipped Baltimore 101-99 Sunday night in the National Basketball Association for their 10th straight victory—something they never managed in St. Louis.

The Knicks, right behind, made it eight in a row with an easier 120-112 decision over Seattle, but six of those triumphs have come since New York acquired All-Star forward Dave DeBusschere. The trade seems to have made the Knicks a serious contender in the Eastern Division.

In the only other games, Bob Boozer led Chicago from behind to a 102-97 triumph over Milwaukee, and Los Angeles downed Detroit 111-108.

Zelmo Beaty's 15-foot jump shot at the buzzer broke the record for the Hawks, whose streak has pulled them within 4½ games of Western Division leader Los Angeles. Beaty's shot climaxed a stirring comeback in which the Hawks overcame a five-point deficit with 51 seconds left on steals by Walt Hazzard and Joe Caldwell. Beaty finished with 23 points. Earl Monroe notched 33 for Baltimore, the East leader.

Willis Reed, switched from forward to center with the acquisition of DeBusschere, pumped in 34 points, his season high, moving the Knicks into a virtual tie for fourth place with Cincinnati.

The victory was the 18th in 22 games for the Knicks while Seattle lost its 10th in a row. Boozer was on the bench when Milwaukee took an 84-77 lead, but he returned to score 13 of his 22 points in the final seven minutes when the Bulls overtook the Bucks.

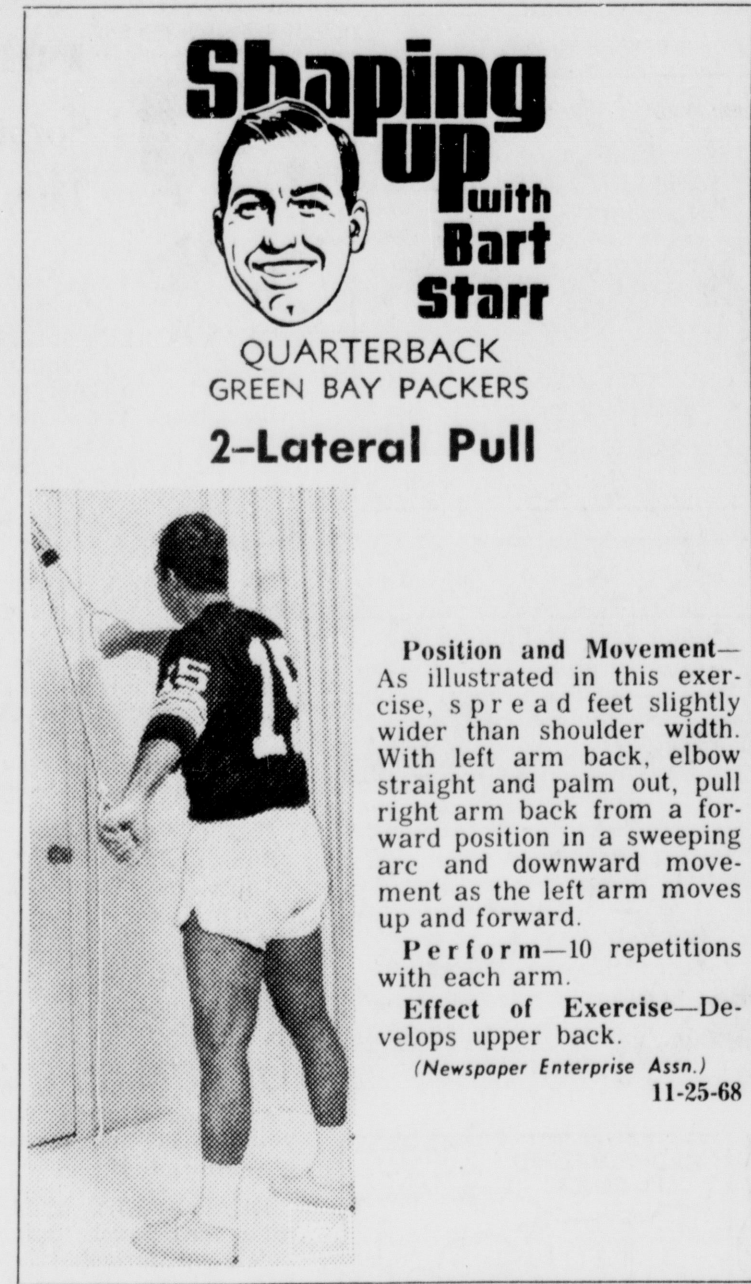

Clutch fourth-quarter baskets by Jerry West and Elgin Baylor led Los Angeles over Detroit. West had 34 points and Baylor 24. Dave Bing and Happy Hairston paced the Pistons with 29 and 28, respectively.

On Saturday night, the Hawks dropped Boston 110-97 and the Knicks nudged Seattle 111-108. Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 128-123, Detroit buried San Francisco 131-1-2, Chicago tripped Los Angeles 93-86, San Diego defeated Phoenix 136-126.

In the American Basketball Association Sunday, it was Houston 93, Los Angeles 83; Oakland 120, Minnesota 99; Denver 102, Dallas 92; Miami 107, New Orleans 106, and Kentucky 118, New York 116 in overtime.

On Saturday it was Denver 127, Los Angeles 112; Oakland 129, Indiana 121, and New Orleans 111, Houston 93.

Miami's annual International Boat Show is set for Feb. 21-26 in Miami Beach's Convention Hall.

Bearcats Win Valley Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Ogletree, Cincinnati's wispy basketball guard, may make Missouri Valley Conference coaches think twice before they throw a zone defense at the potent Bearcats.

North Texas State tried it Saturday night and Ogletree shot the Eagles' eyes out, hitting 12 of 17 long-range shots and leading Cincinnati to a 74-62 victory at Cincinnati. Ogletree, a 6-foot, 150-pounder, finished with 27 points.

It was the Bearcats' Missouri Valley opener and got them started in the right direction toward an expected strong run for the championship.

Five other Valley teams were in action Saturday — four of them in tournaments—and won three of their games. That left Valley teams 46-23 overall in non-conference games this season.

Drake, pre-season co-favorite in the Valley with Cincinnati, won the Dallas All-Sports Classic with an 86-81 victory over Southern Methodist.

Tulsa finished second in the Trojan Classic in Los Angeles, losing 99-88 in the championship game to host Southern California.

Memphis State claimed third in the Pointsettia Classic at Greenville, S.C., by beating Furman, 79-69, in the consolation game.

Wichita State lost the consolation game in the Charlotte, N.C. Invitational, 95-83 to Maryland, to finish fourth.

Bradley won a regularly-scheduled game from Indiana State, 89-63.

Win Holiday Cage Games

Ottawa University, Fort Hays State and Lincoln University won holiday basketball tournaments Saturday, highlighting weekend cage action for Kansas and Missouri college teams.

Ottawa won its own tournament, beating Southwest Baptist, 91-86, in the title game. Pittsburg State claimed third place with an 82-78 triumph over William Jewell in the consolation game.

Fort Hays defeated Midland of Nebraska, 72-63, to take the championship in the Hastings, Neb., Tournament, while Northwest Missouri took third in that meet with a 76-74 edging of host Hastings.

Lincoln U. carted off the biggest trophy in the Quincy, Ill., Holiday Invitational with a 104-98 victory over Tennessee A&I. Third place in that meet went to Washburn University, with a 106-90 win over Kenyon of Ohio.

Drury College was the runner-up in the Granite City Classic at St. Cloud, Minn., bowing 46-38 to host St. Cloud State in the finale.

Missouri-St. Louis claimed third in the Kearney, Neb., tournament with a 94-56 trouncing of Southwestern of Winfield, Kan.

In other games Saturday, Emporia State whipped Southern Louisiana, 78-64, and Oklahoma Christian downed St. Benedict's, 63-45, in the Atchison Doubleheader, while Culver-Stockton dropped an 84-72 decision at Whittier College in California.

The Mennonite Classic opens tonight at Moundridge, Kan.,

No Easy Way In NHL Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The distance from Montreal to New York is about 400 miles. The trip takes little more than an hour by plane, which is the way most National Hockey League teams make it. That's the easy way.

But the Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers couldn't take the easy way following their Saturday night game in Canada. That's because a heavy snowstorm closed down Montreal Airport, leaving the Rangers and Canadiens to their own devices. Both clubs grabbed bus rides and arrived in New York just a few hours before Sunday night's game.

Instead of being weary from the long ride, the Rangers and Canadiens raced from end-to-end in an exciting game won by New York 3-1. In other Sunday night action, Boston rallied to tie Detroit 3-3, Oakland clipped Philadelphia 2-1 and Chicago dropped Los Angeles 4-1.

In Saturday's action, Montreal whipped New York 5-3, Los Angeles stopped Toronto 4-1, Boston bombed St. Louis 6-2, Chicago tripped Minnesota 5-2 and Oakland nipped Pittsburgh 4-3.

Don Marshall was the hero for the Rangers, scoring a pair of goals in the final 10 minutes for the comeback victory. Vic Hadfield hit an empty net for the final Ranger tally. Yvan Cournoyer's second-period power play goal had given Montreal the lead.

The Rangers despite their long bus ride, peppered Montreal goalie Tony Esposito with 50 shots and tagged him with only his second loss in 11 games. The Canadiens had 35 shots at New York's Ed Giacomin.

Boston wiped out a three-goal Detroit lead and tied the Red Wings with Kan Hodge scoring twice for the second consecutive night.

Phil Esposito assisted on all three Bruin goals and moved into a tie with Detroit's Gordie Howe for second place in the NHL scoring race. Both have 43 points, three behind Chicago's Bobby Hull.

The Wings had jumped in front on goals by Garry Unger, Dean Prentice and Ron Harris. But Hodge's power play goal in the second period started Boston's comeback. Rookie Grant Erickson's first NHL goal 37 seconds later and another by Hodge later in the period tied the score.

Defenseman Carol Vadnais fired a 55-foot power play goal in the third period, giving Oakland its victory over Philadelphia.

Earlier, Billy Hicke had scored with the Flyers short two men and Forbes Kennedy had tied it for Philadelphia.

The victory moved the surprising Seals within eight points of first-place St. Louis in the NHL's West Division. It was Oakland's 13th victory of the season—just two under the team's total number of victories

Finishing Touch On Preparations

MIAMI (AP) — Slight favorite Penn State and eager Kansas put the finishing touches to day on their preparations for Wednesday night's Orange Bowl battle with most observers still predicting a high-scoring, free-wheeling battle between the third and sixth-ranked teams.

Both planned only loosening up drills Tuesday before beginning the mental countdown until their confrontation which has at stake for the winner a probable No. 2 national finish behind the winner of Wednesday's Rose Bowl game matching No. 1 Ohio State and No. 2 Southern California.

"We're ready," Kansas Coach Pepper Rodgers declared over the weekend. His star quarterback, Bobby Douglass, backed it up. "I don't think anyone is cocky about winning," Douglass said, "but we all think we'll be pretty tough to beat."

Boosting Kansas' morale was Missouri's 35-10 smashing of highly-regarded Alabama in last Saturday's Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

However, Penn State remains a three-point favorite in the minds of the bettors, and none in the Kansas camp is taking the Nittany Lions lightly, least of all Rodgers.

"Penn State is just a very, very fine football team with some great individuals in Ted Kwalick, Bob Campbell and others," said Rodgers. "We know we'll have to be at our best."

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno returns every bit of praise to the Jayhawks. "Kansas will be by far the best team we've played since I've been at Penn State," Paterno insisted.

Rodgers has hinted that K.U. may do more passing than it did during the regular season to challenge Penn State's rugged defense. "I'd say our best chance lies in throwing the football," Rodgers has said.

Paterno led Penn State to its first perfect, 10-0, season in 21 years, while Rodgers led Kansas to a 9-1 season and co-championship of the Big Eight Conference.

Statistics show little difference in the offenses of the two teams, with Kansas rushing for 2,999 yards and passing for 1,421 more during the season and Penn State gaining 2,739 on the ground and 1,286 in the air.

However, on defense Penn State rates an edge with the oddsman because of its potent linebacking crew led by All-American Dennis Oskert and massive tackles Mike Reid and Steve Smear. Over-all Penn State is bigger than Kansas.

The two teams had one common opponent during the season—Kansas State.

The Wildcats played Penn State even for a half, then bowed under the pressure, 25-9. The Cats lost to Kansas, 38-29, much later in the season when Coach Vince Gibson says they were improved.

Gibson declines to pick a winner, although he naturally leans toward fellow Big Eight member Kansas.

"It'll probably be the kind of a game where the last team that has the ball will score and win it," Gibson said.

last year when it finished last in the West.

Dennis Hull scored his 19th and 20th goals of the season, gunning Chicago past Los Angeles. Brother Bobby, playing with a helmet and face mask to protect his broken jaw, scored his 23rd of the season.

The two goals gave Dennis Hull 13 in the last 10 games and the victory made it six in the last seven starts for Chicago and moved the Black Hawks into a fourth place tie with idle Toronto in the East Division.

Just five points separate the first five teams in the East race.

Ghost Haunting Oklahoma State

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The ghost of Coach Henry Iba's victorious U.S. Olympic basketball team is haunting the Oklahoma State Cowboys.

Tonight, however, the Cowboys can dispel the demon by beating Kansas' eighth-rated Jayhawks in the 9 p.m. championship game of the 23rd Big Eight Conference Tournament in Municipal Auditorium.

That game follows a 7 p.m. contest matching Kansas State and Colorado for third place. This afternoon Iowa State played Oklahoma for seventh, while Nebraska met Missouri for fifth.

Ever since Iba coached the U.S. to the Olympic victory at Mexico City in October, pressure has been building on his OSU varsity. The reason is simple: Iba coached the U.S. to an Olympic victory in 1964 at Tokyo, then his OSU team won the 1965 Big Eight championship. Some anticipate a repeat of history and see the Cowboys as predestined to be triumphant in the Big Eight in 1969.

The theory is romantic, but carries little logic, as Iba stressed after OSU whipped Kansas State 60-52 Saturday night to move into tonight's tournament finals opposite Kansas, a 60-55 victory over Colorado in the semifinals.

"I know this Olympic business is a question now," Iba said. "But it shouldn't have any bearing. This is a young team I have now. That last bunch (1964-65) was experienced and a good shooting team."

"I guess you'd say it's affecting them (OSU players) right now. They're trying to live up to it. They're read all this about what a great team effort it was in the Olympics and they're trying too hard."

The Cowboys, now 7-3 for the season, will challenge Kansas' balanced team with 6-foot-7 Amos Thomas, one of the Big Eight's premier sophomores, and a veteran team led by 6-5 Joe Smith. Thomas is tied for second in tournament scoring with 42 points in two games. Smith is tied for seventh with 30 points. They have 25 rebounds between them.

Kansas, of course, has Olympic star Jo Jo White and two outstanding big sophomores, 6-9 Dave Robisch and 6-10 Roger Brown. Robisch is the meet's top scorer with 44 points going into the title game, while White is fourth with 40 points although he got held to 11 on a great defensive effort by Colorado's Gordon Tope in the semifinal game. Brown has grabbed 15 rebounds for the Jayhawks.

Oklahoma State scored eight straight points halfway through the second half to build a 43-34 lead then fended off flu-weakened Kansas State's comeback efforts. Thomas had 19 points for the Cowboys.

Kansas outscored Colorado 11-6 in the stretch to nip the Buffaloes, icing the victory on Robisch's two free throws with 1:10 to go. Robisch had 24 points and Cliff Meely 23 for the Buffs.

Nebraska walloped Oklahoma 70-48, and Missouri downed Iowa State 80-68 in the consolation round Saturday afternoon.

AFTER BLASTING through a mile of solid granite, workmen are carving this huge cavern deep in a hillside in New-foundland. Youngsters Celebrate With Active Holiday

A round of Christmas activities has come to an exhausting end for 19 children of the State School No. 21 for Retarded Children, 1005 East Fifth.

Activities began Dec. 12 as excited youngsters piled into the cars of the Jaycee Wives to be driven to Tony's Roller Rink for an hour's fun on wheels.

Bowling Day, Dec. 13, was next on the agenda with ice cream, cookies, and Santa Claus awaiting the group at Broadway Lanes.

Cub Scout Pack 66 later played Santa to the group in scout fashion with hand made gifts for each of the children and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hanenkraft presented the group with an instamatic camera to record their holiday activities.

Jaycee Wives on Dec. 19 also presented a turkey dinner to the group at the Coffee Pot Cafe. More presents and another visit from Santa were hard for the 19 youngsters to find repetitions.

St. Paul's Lutheran Receives New Pastor

The Rev. Melvin Geffert, pastor in Blue Hill, Nebraska, has accepted the position of pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Sedalia. He and his family will transfer here in the last week of January and installation services are scheduled to be held February 2.

Rev. Geffert is a graduate of Concordia Seminary, Springfield, Illinois and has studied at the University of Chicago.

Rev. and Mrs. Geffert have two daughters. The eldest is attending school in St. Louis.

Department was on the scene Dec. 20 to distribute oranges and candy at the school's open house and Christmas party. Smithon Tigers saw to it that each child was remembered with a token from them and individual Christmas trees laden with packages arrived from Mrs. Dick Van Dyne. The Cosmopolitan Junior Women's Club, who sponsored the party, served refreshments.

"It was wonderful," Mrs. Dorothy Lee, who oversees the school's operation, said. "We have never had anything like it in our history."
